STATE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS

Union Party an Emergency Party to Meet Perils That Menace Us.

DEMAND MADE FOR HONESTY

The Present State Administration Must be Overthrown Before Affairs Can Be Improved.

THIS IS THE PEOPLE'S FIGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—State Chairman Riter, of the Union party, yesterday issued an address "To the People of Pennsylvania." The address says:

"The convention of the Union party of the State of Pennsylvania, which assembled in Philadelphia on September 24th, was an exceptional gathering of the brains and moral forces of the state. Forty-four counties were represented by 623 delegates. This alone should convince, without statement, that this movement is not inspired, directed or controlled by any individuals or special interest.

"The Union party is aiding to elect the Hon. Harman Yerkes, a life-long Democrat and now judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county, to the Supreme Court of the State. Judge Yerkes has never failed in the performance of his duty.

"It is also aiding to elect the Hon. Elisha A. Coray, Jr., State Treasurer. He is a young Republican, an incorruptible legislator from Luzerne county, who saved the State enough sums of money by the faithful performance of his duty as a member of the last House of Representatives.

"The Union party has been formed as an emergency party to meet the perils that menace us and is composed of the adherents of both national parties. The evil combination of certain of the Democracy with the Republican machine in some of the large centres of population has enabled the latter to control, for corrupt purposes, the affairs of the entire State. As a result of this alliance, the present administration, in connection with the discredited part of the Democracy in Philadelphia, is making a supreme effort to save itself. Without this shameful combination such obnoxious legislation as the ripper bills, railway franchise bills and the bill for changing the board of revision of taxes could not have become laws, and the crowning iniquity of the last legislature, which upheld a speaker who counted as present and voting members who were absent, would not have been possible.

"The present State Administration must be overthrown before affairs can be improved. One of the results of the success of the Union party will be to restore to a normal condition the membership of both the Republican and Democratic parties, and until this is accomplished all citizens should unite for their State's welfare.

"The Union party demands honesty and capacity in the legislative, administrative and judicial branches of government. Its work is that of political house-cleaning.

"This is a people's fight and must be won by the people."

Believed the Natives.

WASHINGTON, October 2.—The following cablegram was received at the war department yesterday afternoon from General Chaffee:

"MANILA, October 1, 12.23 p. m.—Adjutant General, Washington: With reference to your telegram of 30th ult., will cable names of the missing enlisted men as soon as ascertained. The company was rushed about 6 o'clock in the morning by a large body of bolomen, about 400. General Hughes thinks the surprise was due to the confidence of the commanding officer in assertions of friendship from the natives. Result of the investigation will be cabled as soon as obtained.

(Signed) "CHAFFEE."

This message is in response to one sen to General Chaffee by General Corbin on Sunday, immediately upon receipt of the news of the disaster to the company.

May Save Edward Arnold.

LEWISBURG.—The testimony of Irene Orndorf, a minister's daughter, may save Edward Arnold, charged with killing William Denton last week, who was held for trial.

The men engaged in a fight, during which Arnold stabbed Denton.

At the hearing Monday Miss Orndorf said she saw Denton attempt to hit Arnold with a brick.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN.

Their State Convention is in Session in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, October 1.—More than 350 delegates, repreeenting 28,000 firemen were in the Academy of Music when President Mitinger called the first session of the twenty-second annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's association to order. The delegates met both in the afternoon and evening and transacted considerable business. The interest of the delegates in the afternoon session was mainly centred in the nominations for office.

Abraham L. Lacy, of Philadelphia, was the only nominee for president. The association has four vice president and six representative men will be voted for. There are: Alexander Morrow, Catasauqua, Peter Snyder, Pittsburg; H. J. Boyer Pottsville; George A. Backe, Nanticoke; Max. J, Herman, Houtzdale, and Dr. G. W. Berntheisel, Columbia, James A. Green, of Carlisle, was named for corresponding secretary, and A. L. Reichenbach, of Allentown, for treasurer. For the office of recording secretary there will be a close race between W. W. Wunder, of Reading, the present incumbent, and Marion Verbeke, of Harrisburg.

Bradford, McKean county, will be the next meeting place.

One of the agreeable features of the afternoon was the presentation of a magnificent mahogany clock to Chief James C. Baxter, Jr. Representative Joseph L. Mayne, of Allentown, made the presentative speech.

Mayor Ashbridge welcomed the delegates on behalf of the city. He was cordially received and paid a high tribute to the firemen and their duties.

An address of welcome on behalf of the local fire department was made by Assistant Chief George Nallinger. W. H. Sharah, of Scranton, responded for the visiting firemen.

Palm Will Resign.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 2.—Representative O. J. Palm will resign from the Democratic State ticket. He will ask the State Central committee to accept his resignation so that a fusion may be affected with the Union party. Elisha A. Coray, of Luzerne, will probably be substituted. Mr. Palm believes Mr. Coray will succeed him within a week.

Mr. Palm submitted to an interview here yesterday, which he afterwards approved. He was asked whether he thought there would be fusion with the Union party and replied:

"I don't think there is any doubt of it. The Democratic papers of the State, as a rule, favor fusion as the only hope of defeating the machine candidates this fall. The people are disgusted with last winter's disgraceful proceeding in the Legislature and the still more disgraceful exhibition of deliberately endorsing that Legislature's infamy by the State convention.

"How does the state central committee stand on the question?" he was asked.

"I think a large majority favors fusion, and while some of the members, as well as some leaders who are not members, oppose it as good democrats, believing in majority rule, they will not fight fusion after it is once agreed upon."

—It has been discovered that Daleville, Delaware county, Ind., a town of about one thousand inhabitants, has not been included in the last census, although the township in which it is located is given. The census officials in Washington say they had to depend on the supervisors and enumerators entirely and if they failed to make a separate notation of a village in a township, the headquarter officials could not know such a town existed. The town of Daleville does not appear in the census roll of 1890 either. It is a postoffice, but the fact that it was not separately enumerated in 1890 or 1900 is taken as evidence that legally it is merely a part of a township.

Pennsylvania Firemen.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 2.—New Jersey, Massachusetts, New York, Virginia and Maryland, as well as Pennsylvania, are represented at the twenty-second annual meeting and tournament of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's Association, which opened in Philadelphia yesterday. The attendance includes nearly 2,000 delegates and twice that number of visitors. The programme embraces a parade and exhibition as well as a series of business meetings for the discussion of matters relating to the fire fighting business.

—By an order issued from the postoffice department at Washington, Cresson and South Fork postoffices, in Cambria county, have been raised to presidential offices from October 1, with salaries of $1,100 and $1,200, respectively.

WHAT SICKNESS REVEALED!

Strange Story of a Woman Who Masqueraded as a Man.

SHE WAS MISS CAROLINE HALL

An Artist by Profession and Adopting Male Costume She Went Through the Art Centres Without Her Sex Being Discovered.

DIED ON THE VOYAGE TO NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 —The strange story of a woman who preferred to pass for a man was revealed by the death yesterday of Miss Caroline Hall, of Boston, a cabin passenger on the steamship Citta di Terino, which arrived from Naples and other Mediteranean ports on Sunday.

On the passenger list Miss Hall appeared as "Mr. Charles Windlow Hall," and with "him" on the ship was Mrs. Hall. It was not until the former was stricken with a mortal illness that the ship's surgeons made the discovery that the supposed man was a woman. Before that no one suspected that "Mr. Hall" was not a man, and "he" and his wife were received as such. The woman addressed her companion as "Mrs. Hall" and spoke of her as "my wife."

The woman was 39 years old and is said to have been the only daughter of a Col. Hall, a well-to-do retired army officer living in Boston. She was of slender build, medium height and with a short crop of light hair, cut pompadour. She dressed well and carried herself with the air of a man. Her voice and gestures were masculine.

After "Mr.,' Hall was taken ill the ship's surgeons were called in and then the secret came out. The patient begged that it be kept, but the surgeons were forced to tell it to the captain, who, however, did not disclose it to the seventy-five cabin passengers. The surgeons said the patient was suffering with consumption.

The vessel docked at this port on Sunday and the young woman died at 2:33 a m. Monday. During the day the coroner's office was notified and a coroner's physician visited the ship and held an autopsy on the body. The other woman telegraphed to Mr. Hall in Boston. She is waiting for the dead woman's relatives to come for the body. She cannot speak English and did not seem willing to tell all of the strange story. It was learned that she had known "Mr." Hall for some years and was well aware that her companion was a woman.

Last evening a telegram from Albert J. Hall was received aboad the steamship for Miss Caroline Hall, saying the sender would come to New York. It was dated "Boston Highlands."

It was learned last night through the Italian woman that Miss Hall had resided abroad about ten years and met her companion, Guiseppina Poriana, in Milan about three years ago. According to the story Miss Hall decided that men get along better in the world than women and so adopted male costume. She travelled thus with the other for two years and, as she was an artist, went about the art centres painting and working at her profession. Being a good rifle shot Miss Hall is said to have entered several tournaments and won prizes. When she decided to come home she asked the Italian woman to accompany her.

Struck By a Train.

Patrick Callihan, aged 65 years, the watchman at the Philadelphia and Reading crossing at Hepburn street Williamsport, was instantly killed Friday. The man had been on one side of the three tracks flagging a train. After it passed, he stepped over on the other track in front of an approaching train. It is believed that he made efforts to get away, but was prevented from doing so by his shoe catching and fastening itself between two rails. When his body was picked up it was noticed that a portion of his foot was gone. The shoe with a part of the foot in it was found between the rails.

Schwab's Gift to the Church.

Loretto, Pa., Oct. 2.—Clergy and laity of the Catholic church are here in large numbers for the consecration of the magnificent new church of St. Michael, which is the gift of Charles M. Schwab, to the memory of the prince priest, Father Galitzin. Bishop Garvey of Altoona officiated at the consecration ceremonies which took place to-day. The formal transfer of the church was made last night when Mr. Schwab delivered an address.

Overrun by Snakes.

A special dispatch to the Pittsburg commercial Gazette dated Sept 29 says: A queer suit for damages comes from the neighborhood of Karthaus. The claimant is a farmer who lives near the line of the new West Branch railroad, now being built from Clearfield to Williamsport. William Hughes is the contractor at this point on the road, and the farmer makes a claim for $300 damages for the annoyance and fear from the snakes that, he alleges, have been driven from the railroad to his farm and buildings,

The farmer sent for Contractor Hughes and when the latter arrived he found the farmer and all his family killing snakes; the man declared they had done little else for three weeks. In proof of his assertion he escorted Hughes behind the barn where on a fence were strung 123 copperheads, 45 rattlers and 22 snakes of a less dangerous variety. Contractor Hughes offered to pay $25, but this sum was refused and the farmer went before a Girard township justice of the peace and entered suit.

Great Work Being Done.

The extension of the Pennsylvania Division of the New York Central, to connect with the Pennsylvania system at Karthaus, is a great piece of work. The grading is about completed, but they have about 600 men at work on the bridges and tunnels and they are working day and night.

The night turns are enabled to work by the use of electric lights, so that rapid progress is being made in completing the great task. Altogether they have had employed about 3,000 laborers, who have been living in tents and shanties.

Roeser, Coleman & Hoge are the contractors on the tunnel work; the Biddle Construction company is doing the bridge work and Carpenter & Boxley are building the tunnels.

One of the cuts on the Beech Creek is a mile long and 35 feet deep. This has been made to take out the grades. Great p[illegible]s are being made to handle the tremendous soft coal traffic coming from the Patton coal fields.

Knocked of The Train.

Daniel Thurston, of Jersey Shore, received injuries that caused death a few hours later. The young man was a brakeman on the Beech Creek road. While the train was coming east, about five miles east of Snow Shoe, about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and while Mr. Thurston was climbing a ladder on the outside of a refrigerator car, he was knocked off by being struck by a water pipe. The pipe struck him on the back of the head, which knocked him with great force against the car. He fell on a large stone. The fireman saw him fall and the train was stopped. The injured man was picked up unconscious and was taken to the hospital, at Lock Haven, where he died, without regaining consciousness shortly after 10 o'clock. His injuries consisted of a bruise above the temple, a broken jaw, a broken arm and fractured ribs.

Interment was made at Sunbury Wednesday afternoon.

Polish Wedding Feast.

A Polish wedding was held at Clearfield recently and the Karthaus Times secured a copy of the original order for supplies for the feast whichis as follows: Thirty four kegs of beer, 85 pounds of beef, 60 pounds of Polish sausage, 2 hams, 11 gallons of whiskey, 15 cases of pop, 2 gallons wine. For the ball which followed the order amounted to this. Forty kegs of beer, 15 cases of pop, 7 boxes cigars, 400 sandwiches, 8 hams, 3 bushels peanuts.

Fatal Accident at Johnsonburg.

RIDGWAY, Oct. 1—Word was received here Monday morning of a fatal accident which occurred in the Highland Paper company's mill at Johnsonburg Sunday night which resulted in the death of James Heverly. Mr. Heverly was caught in the fly wheel of the big engine and was instantly killed, his body being frightfully mangled.

He was formerly of Howard, Centre county, and is survived by his wife and one child.

—Imposing ceremonies were witnessed at St. Michael's church, Hollidaysburg, Sunday, when the church was formally re-opened, after a thorough renovation, including frescoing, interior painting, stained glass windows, a handsome oxidized brass electrolier, the gift of members of the congregation, and many other improvements. High mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock, with Rev. G. J. Bock, pastor, as the celebrant, Father Mancher as deacon and Rev. T. M. McCabe as sub-deacon.

OUR TROOPS SURPRISED!

A Dismal Story Comes From Far Off Manila.

INSURGENTS MAKE AN ATTACK

On the Island of Samar on Company C, Ninth Infantry—37 Killed, 11 Wounded and 24 Escaped.

THE FILIPINOS WERE NUMEROUS

MANILA, Sept. 30.—A disastrous fight between United States troops and insurgents occurred Saturday in the Island of Samar, near Balangiga. A large body of insurgents attacked Company C, Ninth Infantry, only 24 members of the company escaping. All the others are reported to have been killed.

The company was at breakfast when attacked and made a determined resistance, but the overwhelming number of the insurgents compelled them to retreat.

Of the survivors who have arrived in Basey 11 are wounded.

According to the latest returns the strength of the company was 72. The survivors include Captain Thos. W. Connell, First Lieut. Edw. A. Bumpas and Dr. R. S. Griswold, surgeon, Captain Edwin V. Bookmiller, of the Ninth infantry, reports that Gen. Hughes is assembling a force to attack the insurgents.

The insurgents captured all the stores and ammunition of the company and all the rifles except 26.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—News of the disastrous fight between troops of the Ninth infantry and the insurgents in the Island of Samar Saturday was sent promptly to General Hughes, commanding in that island, to General Chaffee, at Manila and by him transmitted to the war department. It reached the department during the early hours Sunday and Adjutant General Corbin, realizing its importance, at once made it public, after sending a copy to the White House. General Chaffee's dispatch, which agrees with the Associated Press dispatch, is as follows:

"MANILA, Sept. 29.—Adjutant General, Washington: Hughes reports following from Bassey, Southern Samarko: Twenty-four men Ninth regiment, United States infantry—11 wounded—have just arrived from Balangiga; remainder company killed. Insurgents secured all company supplies and all rifles except 12. Company was attacked during breakfast, morning September 28. Company 72 strong; officers, Thomas W. Connelly, captain; Edward A. Bumpas, first lieutenant; Dr. R. S. Griswold, major and surgeon, escaped.

[Signed] CHAFFEE."

It created a sensation in official circles. It was the first severe reverse that has occurred for a long time. Still the officials were not unprepared for news of just this character from Samar, in which the revolution started by Aguinaldo still continues. Samar is a country about as large as the state of Ohio and the American forces of occupation number in all between 2,000 and 2,500 men. These are distributed among various posts in the island, a large number being located at the more important centres. Spain never made any effort to occupy Samar and it only has been for probably three months past that the United States has undertaken that work.

The latest report made by General Hughes to the war department said a number of insurgent rifles were captured. The disaster to company C, of the Ninth infantry, occurred, it is believed, while it was engaged in an expedition to clear the country of roving bands of those insurgents. The fact that the Americans were attacked while at breakfast indicates the daring and pluck of the insurgents.

It is now said in London that "E. B. Lanin," author of a striking book about Russia, is in reality Dr. E. J. Dillon, of the Telegraph, who has the widest range of European acquaintances among statesmen and people alike.

Woes of a Camera Crank.

From the New Orleans Times Democrat.

"All last week I was on a still hunt for a man by the name of Thomas Jenkins," declared an amateur photographer. "I hadn't the faintest idea who the individual was, but I was so thoroughly incensed at the name that I was afraid I would have made the first unlucky bearer of the cognomen suffer for the race. It was this way:

"I recently purchased a new style box camera which I saw advertised in a magazine. I was in a hurry to try it, as I filled my plateholders and went down on the levee front and made a lot of exposures, then rushed home to develope them. The first was a view of some negroes on a row of cotton bales, or should have been, but when I immersed the plate in the pyro 'Thomas L. Jenkins' popped out in nicely-formed letters in a semi-circle on the centre of the plate, with no trace of negroes or cotton. I wondered and tried the next. It should have been a Harrison line steamer, but instead my friend 'Jenkins' again appeared. I grew madder and madder as each of the twelve negatives showed the same picture, and at the end I rushed down to the supply man denounced him for selling me defective plates. He could not explained, so I went over to an opposition concern and secured a box by an entirely different maker. These loaded into my holders, and next day I made several snaps of a baby that lives next door to me, and invited the fond mother into the dark room to see the image of her darling ootsie-tootsie appear on the plate. 'Thomas L. Jenkins' was the only result of my efforts, and but for the presence of the lady I think I would have sworn holes in that dark room until it looked like the star chamber in Mammoth Cave.

"I didn't wait to try the remainder of the plates; instead, I went out, took that camera and undid every screw in its carcase and examined each of its parts minutely. Well, just inside the lens, stamped in the wood was the name I had been photographing. There was a defect in the structure which allowed the embossed edges of the words to catch the light and photograph themselves on the sensitive plate. 'Jenkins' is, of course, not the real name, but a prominent dealer might not care to have it known that he ever turned out defective goods."

Of Interest to Pensioners.

A circular sent out from the United States Pension office at Pittsburg reads as follows:

By act of Congress, approved August 23, 1894, fourth-class postmasters are authorized to administer oaths to pensioners and their witnesses in the execution of pension vouchers.

Vouchers executed before fourth class postmasters will not be accepted unless the postmarking stamp in affixed; this stamp is the one used to show the date a letter is filed in the postoffice for transmission, or on which it is received for delivery. Stamps used in the transaction of other postoffice business will not do.

Postmasters should add after their names when signed to the voucher the words "fourth-class postmaster," as required by Section No. 589 of the U. S. Post Official Guide.

A Mansfield Tragedy.

At Mansfield, Tioga county, early Friday morning John Breen, of Arnot, while intoxicated, went to the home of Mrs. O. B. Elliott and demanded admittance. Being refused, he attempted to force the door. Mrs. Elliott called her grandson, D. Welch, of Coudersport, who was sleeping in the house. Welch went down stairs and when Breen made another attempt to open the door he pushed the unwelcome visitor off the porch. Breen's neck was broken. Welch gave himself up.

Death of a Loganton Lady.

Mrs. Sarah Reighard, widow of John Reighard of Loganton, died Friday morning aged 56 years. She had a stroke of appoplexy about three weeks ago and never regained consciousness. She is survived by the following named children: Benton, Willis, Ernest, Mrs. C. S. Whitman, Bessie and Pearl, of Loganton, and Otto of Jarret, N. C. The funeral took place Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the Lutheran church. Rev. Dice conducting the services.

The shareholders of the Pennsylvania Telephone company at Harrisburg Friday arranged to issue $1,144,000 worth of stock to take over the Central Pennsylvania Telephone and Supply company of Williamsport. The transfer will be made October 1. The new company covers 37 counties.

WORK OF THE LUNGS.

THE NECESSITY FOR PURE AIR AND PROPER BREATHING.

Respiratory Gymnastics Tend to Strengthen the Resisting Force of Nature to Disease—The Lesson of the Black Hole of Calcutta.

To my mind the part of the physical man upon which depends all the possibilities of mental resource is that part which has relation to respiration and which for its perfect work depends upon the quality of the air we breathe, the quantity respired and the method thereof. The apparatus for respiration consists of the lungs, which are double, the one on the right side having three lobes, the other on the left only two. We must always bear in mind that nature is generous in her provisions, and she has given us so much of lung tissue that a large part can be quickly exhausted and become inactive, yet life endure for its legitimate threescore years and ten and its duties and activities continue unhindered by any conscious lack. Under the microscope the lung tissue shows an infinite number of tiny cells or ultimate lobules. Some have estimated these at five or six hundred million, and, wonderful to relate, only with the first breath that the infant draws are both lungs ever filled with absolutely new air. All through life there is necessarily what we call a residual air, which may be of a greater or less amount, according to the breathing habit of the individual. It is said that the extent of surface through which the air breathed passes is approximately about 1,300 square feet, and the excretion from the lungs daily is over two pounds of poisonous matter. In fact, it is certain that at least one-third of the waste and poisonous matter caused by the activities of the organism, its growth, repair, decay, is excreted through the lungs.

Unfortunately, a great majority of mankind breathe very superficially, using only part of this large area of lung tissue. Even if persons are out of doors, unless by wise activity, the deep cells of the lungs are not aerated for the simple reason that very few men or women know how to free the lungs properly. Dettweiler states that "deep breathing not only ventilates the lungs and aids the circulation, but in many cases is able to strengthen the muscles of the thorax, especially those about the upper part of the chest." And I believe that we have a right to expect from respiratory gymnastics a real strengthening of the resisting force of nature to disease. Even if the lungs have begun to break down, honest effort in this direction will supplement medication.

One of the methods of correct breathing is to put the hands lightly on the hips, fingers backward; throw the shoulders well back, hold the chest up, chin in, and then inhale slowly through the nose as long as possible. When the lungs are filled, retain the air until some discomfort is experienced, then, forming the lips in the shape of a letter O, exhale as slowly and evenly as is consistent with comfort, making a slight blowing sound. Such an exercise for five minutes, clad only in one garment or, better, with no garment at all, night and morning, in a well ventilated room, will do very much in man, woman or child to develop the lung capacity, improve the carriage of the body and enrich the quality of the blood, which depends upon the activity of the lungs for its purification.

It is no wonder that so much care has been given by nature to the apparatus for the respiratory function, for we know perfectly well that man has lived as much as sixty days without food, he has been forced to exist for some time without water; but, alas, without air death must come in a brief space of time!

For instance, in 1756, 146 persons were confined over night in a small space not larger than 5,900 cubic feet, with only two little windows on one side. Within an hour all broke out in a profuse sweat. They were tortured with thirst and difficult breathing, and in three and a half hours the majority were delirious. Then when the morning came forty-three only lived to tell the tale. Another extreme case was at the battle of Austerlitz. Three hundred captured soldiers were confined in a small cellar, and within a few hours all but forty were dead. The reason is self evident. The air was insufficient for the demands of each individual, the poisonous exhalations from the body were thrown off through the lungs, and a most agonizing death ensued. It behooves us, then, most carefully to consider in arranging for the ventilation of homes, hotels, hospitals and jails not only that a proper quantity of pure air shall be allowed free circulation, but also to be watchful lest this pure air shall be vitiated by retained impurities.

A great many investigations have been made to ascertain the relation of air to disease, and perhaps the simple statement of the fact that among all industrial classes those are healthier and have the lowest death rate who are gardeners, farmers, agricultural laborers and fishermen—in other words, those whose occupations are carried on in the open air—will be a truth all can understand.

What a lesson, then, to all who may have families of children to rear! How important that every effort should be made to secure the largest amount of air space about the dwelling, plenty of room for the children to play out of doors, and by all means avoid having little ones sleep in an apartment which the winds of heaven do not visit.—Julia Holmes Smith, D. D., in Pilgrim.

THE EYE OF AN ARTIST.

A Case Where It Was More Reliable Than a Sailor's Optic.

Mr. N. Chevalier, the well known artist who accompanied the late Duke of Edinburgh on many of his travels, was once going from Dunedin to Lyttelton, New Zealand, by steamer. Anxious to catch the earliest glimpse of the coast he went on deck at dawn and was alarmed to see that the vessel was heading straight on to the land. Calling the officer's attention to the fact, he was told that it was only a fog bank. The artist maintained his point, but the second officer looked and confirmed his mate.

The artist then said: "Well, gentlemen, I will back my artist's eye against your sailor's eye, and I say that what you mistake for a fog bank is a low range of hills, and there is a range of mountains appearing above them."

But he was only laughed at, until the captain coming on deck found in the growing light that the artist was right and the seamen wrong. The vessel was out of its course, and there was only just time to avert disaster. The helmsman was dismissed in disgrace and the course given to the new steersman, but the vessel's head still pointed landward—the compass was all wrong.

The cause was discovered later. A commercial traveler had brought a box of magnets on board and deposited them in a stern cabin, causing what might have been a fatal deflection of the compass.

To return to the question of interpretation, the artist was dealing with the appearances which his eye was trained to see and his mind to interpret. A speck on the horizon might have remained a mere speck to him long after the sailors had interpreted the speck into a vessel of definite rig. There can be little doubt that the trained eye is accompanied by a sort of mental seeing, an instinct outrunning optics.

THE CHICKEN YARD.

No henhouse that is frequently dusted with lime will be infested with lice.

Lime purifies the quarters and dries them. It is cheap and should be used plentifully.

Always have the nests so low that the hens can step in rather than be obliged to jump down.

If the fowls get too fat, oats as a single food are one of the best grains that can be given to lessen fat.

Mating birds to breed to a feather is a high art, to be acquired only by long practice, aided by close study.

A flat perch is best because of being the most comfortable to the feet and the best support to the breast.

There are three breeds of fowls that are pre-eminently valuable as egg producers. These are the Minorcas, Leghorns and Black Spanish.

A medium sized active male is twice as valuable as one that is large and extra heavy. If large size and weight are desired, select large hens, but the male should be active and vigorous.

When a fowl has canker and the mouth and throat are sore and ulcerated, wrap a soft rag around a lead pencil, dampen it slightly, dip in chlorate of potash and swab out the mouth clean and inject a drop of turpentine.

What Comes After Suicide?

On the whole, it is something of a pity that some of these fellows who cut their throats, blow out their brains or swallow poisons in order to rid themselves of their troubles cannot come back, so they might tell others who are troubled whether relief lies in that direction or not. It is more than probable that what they then could tell would deter other reckless men and women from following in their footsteps, and for that, if for no other reason, their return would be welcome. As Hamlet implied, it is better to bear the ills we know than to fly to those we know not of, and there isn't much doubt that the suicides are not long in finding that out.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Peach Legend.

Almost all fruits and flowers have their legend. One about the peach comes from Japan and tells how a poor, pious old couple were searching for food by the roadside. The woman found a peach, which she would not eat of, though starving, till she could share it with her husband. He cut it exactly in half, when an infant leaped forth. It was one of the gods, who had, he said, accidentally fallen out of the peach orchard of heaven while playing. He told them to plant the stone of the peach, and it brought them happiness, friends and wealth.

How a Plant Protects Itself.

One little plant of South Africa protects itself by assuming a curious likeness to a white lichen that covers the rocks. The plant has sharp pointed green leaves. These are placed close together, with their points upward, and on the tip of each leaf is a little white, scaly sheath. The resemblance of the smooth surface these present to the lichen growing on the rocks, beside which it is always found, is so great that it is not till you tread on it that you discover the deception.—Fortnightly Review.

Her Savings.

"I'm so glad you told me to keep accounts, Henry," she said. "I have just been going over them, and I find that I have saved $200 in the last three months."

"Good!" he exclaimed. "Where's the money?"

"Oh, I haven't got the money," she answered, "but the accounts show that I have saved it just the same."—Chicago Post.

AN INCIDENT OF REVOLUTIONARY DAYS IN CONNECTICUT.

A Letter From the Front That Came and Went and Came Again to Stay. The First Rural Free Delivery In Mansfield Town.

The arrival of the first batch of letters after the establishment of rural free delivery in Mansfield, Conn., recalled to an aged lady of that town a postal incident remembered in her family for 120 years. "My mother always cried when she told the story," she said.

When my mother was a little girl, the narrator went on, to have one's letters regularly brought and handed in at the door would have seemed a miracle of privilege, and to get them without paying postage would have been another. Mails were so slow and uncertain that the safe arrival of an expected letter by any means was an event in a country family, with the postoffice miles away.

Sometimes the delivery was helped along by volunteer carriers—a farmer going home from the grist mill, a housewife returning from market town with her bargains of lamp oil, West India molasses and green tea, or even a passing peddler with his load of tinware and corn brooms. In the old wartime the army had post riders, but they were few and far between.

My grandfather was a soldier of the Revolution, and grandmother kept the home fire burning here, and provided for their three children as well as she could while he was at the front. All summer she had heard no word of him, and when one autumn day a man in a military cloak rode to the door on a white horse her heart beat quick.

"Does Ruth Fuller live here?" he says, holding a thick letter in his hand.

"Yes, I am Ruth Fuller," and grandmother reached eagerly for the letter, for she saw the address in her husband's handwriting.

"The postage is 2 shillin's."

Grandmother's countenance fell, for there wasn't so much money in the house.

"Guess you don't know me," remarked the man, opening his cape and tipping back his cocked hat, but still holding the letter. She knew him then—an enemy capable of a mean revenge.

"Ah, yes, you remember Tom Turner and how he asked you to marry him and you give him 'No, I thankee,' and took John Fuller. I wasn't good enough to marry ye, but I'm good enough now to bring ye letters from the man that did, and I'm good enough to charge ye a steep price for goin' out o' my way. So hand over your 2 shillin's and take your letter."

The poor woman told him she had no money. To be held up in this heartless and insulting way was a bitter trial to her. Her grief was deeper than her resentment, but she was too proud to let the cruel fellow see her weep.

"I will get you a good dinner," she said, "and feed your horse and give you a pair of nice long stockings."

It was a humiliation to plead with Tom Turner, but she could do no less.

"Money or nothin'," he says, and he put the letter in his pocket and rode away.

Grandmother went into the house and sat down and cried, and her children, clinging about her, cried too. During her long months of waiting, at odd hours she had spun and woven cloth and sewed garments and knitted woolen stockings for John's winter comfort, trusting to find some way to send them to him. Now the messenger had come and gone who could at least have carried word, and he had refused even to give her her husband's letter.

"Ma, God knows what the bad man did," sobbed one of the little ones. "He knows what nice things you've made for pa, and he'll send a good man next time."

The baby's thought relieved the mother's despair, and the three lonely hearts prayed and waited anxiously for the "next time," and, sure enough, before winter came they saw the same white horse galloping toward the house. "He's brought the letter back!" they all cried out together, for they believed the rider to be the same man.

Grandmother rushed from the door with all her children. The horseman held out the same letter, and as he gravely put it into her hands she glanced up to his face and screamed for joy.

"John! It is you!"

It did not take her husband long to tell the rest of the story. Tom Turner had returned to headquarters, and one night, made talkative by an extra ration of rum, he had bragged how he "got even" with an old sweetheart who jilted him. His exploit reached the ears of his commanding officer, who took away his commission and put my grandfather in his place. The new post rider had brought his own letter to his wife. It was the first rural free delivery in Mansfield town.—Youth's Companion.

Cupid's Guide.

"In all my life," she said, with a sigh, "I have seen only one man that I would care to marry."

"Did he look like me?" he carelessly asked.

Then she flung herself into his arms and wanted to know what secret power men possess that enables them to tell when they are loved.—Chicago Herald.

AN ECCENTRIC DINER.

The Tall Story That Is Told of a Parisian Gourmet.

Paris is par excellence the city of gourmets and cranks, and many a story concerning them has added to the gayety of the nations. Here is one of the latest, told by a well known French head waiter: One of the regular customers of a famous Parisian restaurant used to be a short, thin, shy and shabbily dressed man whose name no one knew, but who gave out that he was a butter dealer, for which reason he was called the butter man at the restaurant in question.

He ate next to nothing, but his soup tureen, filled with a soup specially prepared for him, was always put before him. He took a few spoonfuls and had it taken away. Next came a whole fillet of beef, from which he cut the tiniest slice. Then followed four quails or a large chicken, of which he ate one mouthful, together with two lettuce leaves and one radish. His dessert was four grapes—never a single one more—and a cup of coffee. A bottle of the best claret and another of the best champagne were served with the repast, but he only wetted his lips with a drop from them and let them go. He took two of these meals a day, and the price for each meal was 120 francs.

But this was not all. Every time the butter man got up from his extraordinary meal he gave 40 francs to the head waiter, who put his food on his plate, since the guest did not like to handle spoons or dishes; 20 francs to the waiter, 10 francs to the woman cashier and 5 francs to the porter. Thus each meal came to 200 francs. The head waiter of the restaurant often did slight errands for him, buying his cigars, etc., and took them to the Grand hotel, where the butter man lived. The little old man would then open the drawer of a wardrobe filled with heaps of bank notes of from 100 francs to 600 francs in value and with an enormous mass of goldpieces. "Pay yourself," said the owner, and the head waiter did so, putting the bills before his patron, who never deigned to look at them.

One day the mysterious millionaire went away and was never seen again.—Westminster Gazette.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

The burning of a sulphur candle in a room infested with pests of any kind will relieve you of them in a short time.

Glasses which have been used for milk should be washed first in cold water and then in hot soapsuds. This will make them clear and shining.

Wilted or drooping flowers may be revived by giving them a quick plunge into moderately hot water in which a few drops of ammonia have been poured.

Never put soda in the water in which you wash china that has any gilding on it. Soda injures the gilding. Instead use soap, which answers just as well and has no ill effects.

In washing cut glass only moderately hot water should be used on account of the glass being of varying thickness, which causes the dishes to expand unevenly if subjected to excessive changes of temperature.

A Rattlesnake's Wisdom.

The writer of this rode broncbos and "punched" cattle on the ranges of Montana and Wyoming twenty years ago and had ample opportunity to study the habits of rattlesnakes. He knows how they went into their holes then, and it is doubtful if any improvement has since been made in their method. They start in head first, and one would promptly come to the conclusion that they reach the bottom of their holes in this manner, but Mr. Snake is too wily to keep his head where he cannot have an eye on the rest of his body; therefore as soon as he enters the hole a few inches he makes a half turn which brings his head to the entrance again and then permits the remainder of his length to glide down out of sight—a very simple performance, you will see.—Exchange.

When Grace Was Said.

A Barnard college girl tells in the New York Times of visiting in a household where grace was said at the table semioccasionally. Her curiosity got the better of her, and she asked the mistress of the house why they didn't observe the rite regularly. "Why," said the lady with some surprise, "we say grace only when we have reason to be thankful. We never dream of giving thanks when we have only roast beef or beefsteak or some simple thing like that; but whenever we have game or something really nice then we say grace, for it's worth while."

The American Boy.

Even in trying circumstances, even when serious misfortune overtakes the youthful American, his aplomb, his confidence in his own opinion, does not wholly forsake him. Such a one was found weeping in the street. On being asked the cause of his tears he sobbed out in mingled alarm and indignation: "I'm lost! Mammy's lost me. I told the darned thing she'd lose me."—Muirhead's "Land of Contracts."

Pens.

In 1820 pens began to be made by Gillott, who manufactured them of steel finely tempered. The pen was handmade throughout and, though very inferior to the machine made article of the present day, was still a great advance upon the iron barreled pens that had been previously made.

The Highest Court.

The Denver Times says that when Tom Bagnell was justice of the peace at Altman, the highest incorporated town in the country, standing 12,000 feet above the sea level, he had occasion to fine a disorderly character $10 and costs. The victim of the operation of justice objected to the finding of the court and announced that he would take an appeal.

"What? Appeal, would you?" asked the astonished court. "You can't come any o' that, now. This is the highest court in the United States, and you can't appeal."

She Was an Observer.

"Did George write to you every day while he was traveling around?"

"Yes, every day."

"What regularity!"

"Yes, but I discovered that every one of the letters was written here in his office before he started, and all he had to do was to drop one in the postoffice wherever he chanced to be."

"And how did you find that out?"

"The 'e' in his office typewriter is broken."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DENOUNCED SWALLOW.

Sunday School Repudiates the Harrisburg Preacher for Alleged Remarks About McKinley.

At a memorial meeting of the Milesburg M. E. Sunday school the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That we express our disapprobation of the language used by the Rev. Silas Swallow in a recent interview in which, in his weak way, he tried to cast opprobrium on the name of our martyred president, William McKinley, by classing him with rumsellers. It is with a feeling of shame and indignation that we read his words—shame to think that a minister of our church should be so lacking in the spirit of charity; indignation to think that an avowed temperance advocate could be so intemperate in the use of language, for we believe that as much harm is caused by intemperate speech as by any other form of evil.

The Rev. Mr. Swallow has, by his sneering remarks, made in this, our time of national sorrow, shown that he is no true American—a foreigner by birth, he remains a foreigner at heart—and as we believe him to be incapable of rising to a place of true American patriotism, we hereby repudiate the man as well as his acts; and as we believe him to be unfit to be in any way connected with the teaching of our young people, we direct our superintendent to buy no more supplies for this Sunday school from the Rev. Mr. Swallow or any house with which he is connected, and to cancel any orders already given.

Signed: James Gregg, S. M. Huff, Geo. McCullough, Geo. Taylor, J. M. Huff, J. D. Kanarr, Jas. McCullough, R. H. Kreamer, D. E. Miles, John E. Miles, P. H. Haupt, Wm. B. Miles, W. T. Fulton, H. L. McMullin and Wesley Crain.

An Enjoyable Entertainment.

A very delightful entertainment was given in the A. M. E. church Thursday evening consisting of music and recitations, Miss Ida Mitchell, a young lady of Williamsport, Pa., presided at the organ. This young lady possesses a very excellent musical talent, she sang several selections during the evening which were highly commendable. Mrs. Mary Miller sang a solo entitled "Little black me" which was much appreciated by the audience, a recitation by Mrs. Katherine Green "The last Hymn" was another very enjoyable feature of the entertainment as well as an orstion by Master Arthur Thomas. The entertainment concluded with a selection by a Quartette composed of Ida Mitchell, Carrie Mills, Lewis Mills and Henry Thomas. The proceeds of the entertainment will be applied to the debts of thetrustees.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at F. Potts Green's Drug Store.

The Population of London.

The population of London, according to the authoritative and careful calculations of Mr. Welton, published in the December (1900) issue of the Royal Statistical Society's Journal, amounted to only 1,060,000 in 1801. This figure had doubled itself by 1841; in 1891 the total reached 5,442,000, and by 1901 was probably 6,250,000.

The area included, it should be said, is not precisely that of the census returns, so that the figures, though based upon the census returns, differ considerably from them. But practically we may say that in the lapse of a century the inhabitants of London multiplied sixfold. The enormous population, greater than that of many European states of the second class, is compressed within a space of about 130,000 acres, or, say 200 square miles.—National Review.

BIG OIL TANK EXPLODES!

At Least Six Men Were Killed Outright.

OTHERS WERE VERY BADLY HURT

Three Men Were Overcome by Gas While Cleaning a Tank and While Rescuers Were at Work the Explosion Occurred.

THOUGHT TO BE CAUSED BY SPARK

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 27.—Six men were killed and six or seven more were more or less severely burned or bruised by the explosion of a big oil tank at the Front street plant of the Essex and Hudson Gas company, on the bank of the Passaic river in this city, yesterday afternoon.

Just how it occurred is a matter of speculation, but it developed great heroism upon the part of four of the victims who are dead. The tank, which was about 30 feet in diameter and 20 feet high, was used for volatilizing crude oil for enriching illuminating gas, and it was necessary to empty and clean it at intervals, but orders were issued that the manhole at the top should be left open for a fortnight to thoroughly ventilate the tank before men should enter it.

According to the story told by Secretary James P. Dusenberry, of the gas company, this rule has been disobeyed and one of the cleaners entered the tank after it had been open less than six hours and without tying a rope around his body, as another regulation of the company demands.

LOST LIFE BY RECKLESS DARING.

He was instantly overcome by the naptha fumes and another workman, without a rope, went down into the tank to rescue him. He, too, was overcome, and the third man, disregarding the warning of his comrades, went down after the two unconscious men. Supt. Theodore Bunker, of 68 Park place, arrived at this moment and went to the top of the tank with two men who had long ropes attached to their waists. At the same time several men were cutting the heads from the rivets holding one of the plates at the lower edge of the tank for the purpose of letting the heavy vapor flow out. It is supposed that a spark from a chisel set fire to the gas in the tank. There was an explosion, which rent the tank and blew off its top.

Bunker and his two companions were blown into the yard and badly burned by the flames which arose. Other workmen were knocked down, burned and bruised by the explosion and one man was thrown into the river. The flames set fire to a wooden building at the side of the tank and a fire alarm was sent out at the same time that a call for ambulances was sent to all of the hospitals and police stations. The firemen, policemen and ambulances arrived within a few minutes and the flames were quickly extinguished, while both firemen and policemen attended to the injured and recovered the bodies of the dead from the ruined tank. Six bodies were recovered and five were identified.

VOLUNTEER RESCUER KILLED.

One of the dead was Nicholas Miller, 45 years old, who was a foreman at the gas works until about a year ago, when he opened a grocery store in the neighborhood. He had been quickly apprised of the asphyxiation of the three men and, hurrying to the works, had taken an active part as a volunteer rescuer. He was instantly killed by the explosion. The others killed were Albert Snyder, 22 years old, 343 Fourth avenue, Jersey City; Otto Neumann, a day foreman, 27 years old, of 75 Clay street; Wm. Myers, 45 years old, of Harrison; Morris Kirsch, 35 years old, of Central avenue and Norfolk street, Newark, and an unidentified workman who was suffocated by the gas in the tank. Theodore Bunker, the superintendent, was burned and bruised but was miraculously saved from death after being blown from the top of the tank in an outburst of flame. Among the other injured was Salvatore Niccitro, of 8 Adams street, who was blown into the river and was rescued by a boatman. He was badly bruised and singed.

To Locate Anarchists.

The postoffice inspectors of the United States have been ordered by Chief Wilkie, of the secret service department, to secure all the information possible regarding anarchists in their districts. They are to secure a complete list of all anarchists and all that can be learned about them. In addition it is desired that data be obtained concerning the wives of anarchists, their children, and all persons who ever attended an anarchistic meeting or rented rooms or buildings for such purpose. This data, with other facts, will be compiled into what will be known as the "Red Book of Anarchistic Information." It has been reported to the secret service department that there are several anarchists in this vicinity, among them a participant in the famous Haymarket riots of Chicago. A careful record of his name, age general conduct since the riots has been taken and forwarded to the department. The "Red Book" will prove of great value in stamping out this pernicious doctrine.

That Gold Spoon.

There are some men who seem to be favorites of fortune. They are industrious, cheerful workers, full to overflowing of the energy of splendid health, and success seems fairly to drop into their hands. It is of such as these that the less hardy and less successful man says enviously, "That fellow was born with a gold spoon in his mouth." And yet on analysis it will be found that this success is largely due to splendid health, the endowment of a healthy mother.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives the mother health to give her child. It cures nervousness, nausea and sleeplessness. It makes the body comfortable and the mind content. It gives physical vigor and muscular elasticity so that the baby's advent is practically painless.

"I will endeavor to tell you of the many benefits I have derived from taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. B. E. Robertson, of Medicine Lodge, Barber Co., Kans. "In the fall of 1899 I was expecting to become a mother and suffered terribly with pains in the back of head; in fact I ached all over. Suffered with awful bearing-down pains; I was threatened for weeks with mishap. A lady friend told me to use Dr. Pierce's medicines. She had taken them and felt like a new woman. I began using the 'Favorite Prescription' and took four bottles before my baby came and two afterwards. I suffered almost death with my other two children, but hardly realized that I was sick when this baby was born and she weighed twelve and one-quarter pounds. She is now eleven months old and has never known an hour's sickness; at present she weighs thirty-seven pounds. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, and sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

A Black Record.

The statistics of lynching in this country as just collected and published by the Chicago Tribune furnish a black record for this country. It is shown by these figures that in the past twenty years 3,130 people have been put to death by mobs. These mob murders have ranged from 226 in 1892 to as low as ninety in the year 1881, when the statistics commence. The record for 1901 is not yet complete, but with four months to be heard from 101 mob murders are charged against it.

The table is given of lynchings in the various states for the past sixteen years. The total of these is 2,516. Mississippi heads the list with 253 Delaware, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont and Utah show none, there being room for suspicion of the exhaustiveness of the returns from Utah. The division by sections enables a judgment of the accuracy of the general estimate of the localities where lynching is prevalent. Of the total 2,044 took place in the southern or former slave states, 370 were in the region known in the mid-century as the plains, viz., west of Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, and 102 were in the northern states. It is shown, too, that in the southern states closest to the north the lynchings are fewer. Maryland and West Virginia have the lowest totals of the south. Illinois has the bad pre-eminence among northern states, with thirty-six lynchings against it. It is the only northern state which has not fewer lynchings than Maryland, the southern state which makes the best showing.

One of the most appalling aspects of the universally disgraceful subject is its steady lapse into savagery. Prior to 1894 the mobs were satisfied to hang or shoot their victims. Now they demand the torture which only savages inflict, and make a public holiday of the horrible sight. The entire record is a national disgrace.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

All Demand Enterprise.

No young man can hope to advance rapidly who lacks an enterprising progressive spirit. Indeed, enterprise is a requisite to employment. No one wants to employ a youth who lacks push. He must be alive too and in touch with the spirit of the hour, or he is not wanted anywhere. The enterprising employer wants every employee to share his spirit. The unenterprising business man feels all the more keenly the need of assistance from those who can make up for his failing. Force, pushing, dynamic qualities are everywhere in eager demand, while the dawdling, incompetent, unprogressive wait in vain for a start or for promotion. —October "Success."

HELD FOR HEAVY RANSOM

Woman Held Captive by Bulgarian Banditis to be Rescued from Death.

SHE IS SECRETED IN MOUNTAINS

Turkish Captive Held by the Outlaw Band Subjected to Torture and Killed.

FULL DETAILS OF THE OUTRAGE

BOSTON September 26.—The America Board of Foreign Missions has decided to pay a ransom for the recovery of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the missionary who on September 3 was captured by Bulgarian brigands on the Bulgarian frontier. In accordance with this decision the board has charged its representative in Constantinople with the ransoming of the woman, leaving the price to be arranged by him.

The decision has been communicated to the State Department at Washington, which had made specific inquiries on the subject. Miss Stone is probably secreted in the fastnesses of Bulgaria, and the only way to rescue her from death or torture is to pay a money ransom, and this will be done at once.

The board yesterday received a letter, dated Samokoo, European Turkey, September 7, giving full details of the capture. The writer says:

"We were greatly pained Tuesday at noon to learn from a telegram from Dr. House that Miss Stone and Mrs. Tsitka, the wife of the Albanian preacher, were captured and carried off by a band of brigands on September 3, about 4 p. m., while on their way, with quite a company of friends, from Baneko to Djumaa.

"Just before sunset two of our students from Baneko arrived. They were with Miss Stone when the brigands captured the party. From their accounts, by the aid of questions, I got the following. The whole party—about fifteen to eighteen—were suddenly stopped in a narrow valley, and as soon as possible all were compelled to wade a river and ascend the wooded mountain side as fast as threats could make them for about an hour. Not all the brigands could be seen, but twenty were counted at one time, as I understand, and it was the opinion that there must have been forty of them, dressed like Turks and talking bad Turkish. They spoke occasionally good Bulgarian. They knew Miss Stone, showing that they were mainly after her. She and Mrs. Tsitka were taken on further and seen no more. The remainder were relieved of money, watches, etc., and compelled to stay all night under strict guard.

"After sunrise the brigands who watched them went up the mountain and the remainder of the party were free. Our two students passed through Djumaa and on across the border to save themselves from detention by the Turkish authorities. The teachers, Bible women and Mr. Tsitka returned to Bansko. It seems that this detention of all the party kept the Turkish Government from getting any knowledge of even the presence of brigands till about noon of September 4, and gave those outlaws a chance to hurry their captives to a place far distant from the scene of their capture. A Turk captured just before this party was, was taken up the mountain with them and beaten to death before their eyes.

"Though I know nothing as to which direction the captives were taken, I think it most likely that they will be brought into Bulgaria. A Bulgarian army officer came yesterday, sent by the government to learn about these brigands. He said they had special instructions and that they would guard their border very closely.

"It is very probable that a large proportion of the brigands make Bulgaria their headquarters.

"When the Turkish troops get thawed out enough to chase the brigands these latter will naturally prefer Bulgarian civilization to Turkish rule.

"If they can get quietly across the border into Bulgaria they can peacefully secreted their victims, and by keeping quiet live honorable lives till they get their share of the ransom."

Peculiar Incidents.

It is a singular fact, though not significant, that both the death of President McKinley and the qualifying of his successor took place in the houses of Democrats.

Mr. Milburn, whose guest Mr. McKinley was, in whose house he died, is an influential Democrat, and in former times was closely allied with Grover Cleveland in Buffalo politics.

Mr. Ansley Wilcox, who entertained Vice President Roosevelt, and in whose home the latter took the oath of office, is one of the Democratic leaders of Buffalo.

Another singular fact is that Czolgosz, who shot McKinley, voted for him.

—There are three important times in a man's life—when he is born, when he marries and when he dies. An even then his own importance is over shadowed by the curiosity to know if it is a boy or a girl, what the bride wore, and what he left in his will. Vain man, you don't cut much figure in this world.

Hoffman—Walker.

A pretty home wedding took place at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Olva A. Hoffman at Pleasantville, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Miss Caroline E. Hoffman to W. Harrison Walker, a prominent young attorney of Bellefonte. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Rodger Charnack, pastor of the Presbyterian church at that place. The bride was attended by Miss Ella L. House, of Pleasantville, as maid of honor, while the groom's best man was J. S. Omwake, Esq. of Shippensburg, who was a classmate and fraternity brother of the groom while the two attended Dickinson Law school. The Misses Marjorie Stewart of Titusville and Margurite Shelmadine of Pleasantville served as ribbon girls.

They were the recipients of many presents, that were beautiful and costly. Noticeable among them was, from the Bench and Bar of Bellefonte, Pa., a fine silver service together with waiter; also a large leather rocking chair, from the Centre county court house officials.

Among the guests present from this section were Miss Grace McBride, D. Paul Fortney, Chas. Kurtz, Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Krumrine, of Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Walker, Mrs. Samuel E. Walker, of Salona; and Charles E. Walker, of Johnstown, Pa.

Miss Hoffman is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, who are prominent citizens of that community, Mr. Hoffman being in the oil and gas business and Gen'l Supt. of the Phoenix Oil and Gas Co., at that place. The groom is junior member of the well known law firm of Fortney & Walker, Bellefonte, and is recognized as a young man of ability and promise.

Following the ceremony dinner was served and the bridal party departed for the south on a brief wedding tour, at the expiration of which they will be at home November 15 at 203 East Linn street, Bellefonte.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

FOR PROTHONOTARY,
EDWARD C. McKINLEY,
of Bogg's Twp.

EDITORIAL.

"Judge Love is the recognized leader of the Quay forces in Centre county."—John Hamilton to the Republican county convention, July 30, 1901.

PETER the "Ripper" still sleeps spoon fashion with Love and Hamilton and will continue to do so until he gets his $275.00 from the State for $25.00 worth of printing. "Oh! Peter, Peter! Was there anything neater?"

IN true Democratic fashion, President Roosevelt has sent his children to the Washington public schools. He simply desires that they become good and patriotic Americans, and he has warned them against useless frills of fashion.

THE last obstacle to the Pan-American Congress in the city of Mexico has been withdrawn. The nations of the new world will, through their delegates, assemble there for a conference that will probably mean the closer drawing of common ties and the increase of international progress on this side of the water. It may lead to a biennial session of national representatives that will in the course of time bring about a powerful American Federation.

THE Watchman inquires "How did it happen that Daniel was not present at the Union Party convention?" It is not necessary to make such an inquiry about "Ripper" Meek. Everybody knows his party would not send him as a delegate to the regular Democratic convention, nor was he wanted at the Union convention. No Democratic Quayite need apply to either. "R" Meek can hold a convention with Ryan and Donnelly and other Democratic Quayites, if he wants to. No other Democrats have any use for him.

WHAT ABOUT THOSE QUERIES, JOHN?

Several weeks ago Editor Harter of the Keystone Gazette put a few pertinent questions to John Hamilton, the saintly apostle of Quayism in Centre county and champion of pledge-breakers and bribe-takers, in answer to an attack made upon the Gazette editor by said Hamilton through the medium of the State College Times. The attack was in nature of a charge that Editor Harter was an "insurgent" and all that the name implied as interpreted by Hamilton and his kind. To date Hamilton has evaded the issue he raised and has given no head to Editor Harter's interrogations.

For the edification of those of our readers who may have no knowledge of the questions to which the saintly Hamilton's attention was respectfully invited and as a reminder to him who may have, in the press of official duties, forgotten the incident, we take the liberty of quoting them and to add our request to that of Editor Harter that this recent convert to Quayism and the machine gang kindly give them the courtesy of his personal consideration and public response. Editor Harter queried the Oleo trusts special agent and promoter for Pennsylvania as follows:

First. "Were you not the same John Hamilton who, in the campaign of 1896, pounced down on "Little Phil" Womelsdorf and demanded that unless he comply with certain terms you there laid down before him you would defeat him for election to the Pennsylvania Legislature, notwithstanding his having been fairly nominated by the Centre County Republican convention"

Second. "Was not Mr. Womelsdorf, upon refusing to comply with your conditions, then defeated at the general election; did you not assist in doing it, and was not that the beginning of this unhappy family quarrel?"

Third. Did you not at various times, during Governor Hastings' administration, of which you were an appointee, denounce our Republican United States Senator, the Honorable Matthew Stanley Quay, and our then Republican member of Congress, the Honorable William C. Arnold, in language so fraught with ecclesiastical terms that only a Presbyterian elder could comprehend it?"

Fourth. "Did you ever attend a Republican county convention as a delegate that you did not create a disturbance by attempting to dictate conditions to the Republican party to whose success you have never, to our knowledge, contributed one red cent since the day you have been drawing a double salary from the State?"

Fifth. "Were you not an 'Insurgent' yourself, and, if so, when did you turn into a 'Stalwart,' and what for, or what religious or political ethics have taught you that turning State's evidence is the single and direct road to political purification.

Now, Mr. Hamilton, the Republicans of Centre county, including those whom you would read out of the party, are waiting to have you make immediate reply to these questions. If you are unable, as we believe you to be, to give an negative answer to each interrogation, you have no right to challenge the consistency and party loyalty of those Republicans who beg the privilege to differ with you in their views on Quayism and machine rule.

You are hardly in a position, Mr. Hamilton, to sit in judgment upon men whose opinions are based upon honest sentiment and conscientious conviction. The reason for your zealous activity in the interest of Quay and his machine cause, is generally understood to be one of the dollars and cents involved in the emoluments of your official position. It is a fact patent to your fellow citizens in Centre county that your recently acquired admiration for Quay and your conversion to the political tenets of his band of corruptionists and boodlers was purely a matter of barter and sale, nevertheless your fellow-countians would like to have you answer Editor Harter's queries.

It is a tough proposition you are up against, Mr. Hamilton. You seemingly forgot that you were living in a glass house when you began stone throwing and disregarded the injunction the wisdom of sages provided for the preservation of those who dwell therein. After all it matters little whether you reply to the foregoing questions or not. The citizens of Centre county know that every charge implied in each of the five you cannot truthfully deny. They have taken your true measure, Mr. Hamilton, and if you do not know it some day you will be enlightened. We do not wish to be "coarse, vulgar or low" in the treatment of your case, but we feel that we should not conclude our few remarks without stating for your information that the Republicans of Centre county and the citizens generally, aside, perhaps, from those who share with you the emoluments of machine favor, regard you in the light of an ungrateful political demagogue for revenue only, a laborer of the machine worthy of its hire.

SILAS C. SWALLOW.

Silas C. Swallow is a member of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal conference. He is the Superintendent of the Methodist Book Rooms at Harrisburg. The Book Room is a book and stationery store. It is a combination. It is supposed to have for sale Methodist literature. We are informed that Silas C. Swallow owns all or nearly all of the stock of this institution.

Swallow is also the proprietor of the Pennsylvania Methodist, a weekly publication generally understood to be the official organ of the Central Pennsylvania conference. But it is not. It was repudiated as such by the official action of a recent annual meeting of the conference.

Swallow receives his appointment as Superintendent of the Book Room from the annual conference. This appointment gives him to some extent the official backing of the conference and makes it difficult for the public at large to understand otherwise than that the Pennsylvania Methodist is the official organ of the conference.

On Monday evening, Sept. 23rd, a respectable body of the citizens of Harrisburg to the number of one thousand or more, held a public indignation meeting and passed resolutions condemning Silas C. Swallow in unmeasured terms for assailing "in the most brutal manner" and assaulting the memory of William McKinley with defamatory and outrageous falsehoods in the previous issue of the Pennsylvania Methodist. The two important resolutions are:

"Resolved, That Silas C. Swallow, editor of the so-called Pennsylvania Methodist, deserves to be pilloried as an enemy to these United States of America, and that his name should only be mentioned with those of Judas and Cain, Benedict Arnold, Wilkes Booth, Guiteau, Czolgosz and the other traitors, assassins, liars and vile traducers of character who have blackened the pages of the world's history.

"Resolved, That this assemblage convened under the auspices of the McKinley Veteran Patriotic League, denounce Silas C. Swallow as one unfit to enjoy the blessings of American citizenship, as one who should be shunned by true patriots and lovers of this heavenly country."

The published reports of the meeting show that this large assemblage opened its proceedings with prayer by Rev. Luther DeYoe, of the Messiah Lutheran church. Col. John T. Ensminger, a crippled veteran officer of the war of the Rebellion and a member of the Methodist church, presided. The hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," was sung. Miss Seaman sang "Crossing the Bar." H. L. Burrell read the "treasonable extracts" from the Pennsylvania Methodist. A letter of sympathy with the object of the meeting was read from Rev. C. V. Hartzell, of the M. E. church. The committee on resolutions then reported and they were unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

The Methodist church in the United States is as old as the Declaration of Independence. The first conference was held in Arch street, Philadelphia, under the very shadow of Independence Hall. The church has grown with the growth of the country. There is not a spot in America where the flag waves that there is not a Methodist meeting house nearby. There never was a crisis or a struggle where the honor of the flag was involved that the Methodist people were not on the side of the Union and well up to the front. Our martyred President McKinley was a loyal and typical member of the Methodist church.

May we not be permitted to suggest to the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal conference the propriety of separating Silas C. Swallow from an official relation with their great church which places it in a false light?

IT will be the earnest effort of William McKinley's successor to keep the tide of prosperity at the flood.

A MERCHANT MARINE TAIL-ENDER WITH A FUTURE.

One-fourth of the sea-carrying power of the world is in the hands of thirty large companies of various nationalities. Only one of these thirty is American and it controls but 81,000 tons out of the total of 5,616,000 tons controlled by the thirty companies. In the last decade England alone has built 4,638 steel steamers, with a capacity of 9,793,000 tons. In the same time America has built only 465 steel steamers, with a capacity of 743,000 tons and 198 of these steamers, representing 450,000 tons, were for the inland commerce of the great lakes.

That America is a tail-ender, comparatively, in the world's merchant marine service, is not disputed. That it should not be is not denied. The products of the American farms, factories and furnaces flood the markets of the world and today America stands at the head of all nations in its industrial and commercial progress and development. The transportation of our immense volume of foreign trade is handled almost exclusively by foreign ships and for the service millions upon millions of American dollars are annually paid to the foreign merchant marine transportation companies.

The passage of the ship's subsidy bill, which is confidently anticipated during the next session of Congress will give an encouragement to domestic ship building resulting in the rapid development of a domestic merchant marine which in time will meet the requirements of our vast import and export traffic, and when that auspicious and advantageous condition is brought about, and it is only to be attained by the co-operation of the national government as comprehended by the ship's subsidy measure, the enormous revenue that is annually paid to foreign marine transportation companies, estimated to be $200,000,000, will find its way into the various channels of domestic circulation directly and indirectly involved in the shipbuilding industry and ocean carrier service.

The passage of the ship's subsidy bill would stimulate the ship-building industry in this country and encourage the organization of ocean transportation companies to compete with the foreign companies who now carry the bulk of our two billion dollar foreign business. The $200,000,000 yearly tribute American shippers and importers pay to foreign ship-builders and transportation companies would in a short time be paid to American shipbuilders and transportation companies and an army of American workingmen would be the beneficiaries of the change. It is hardly fair to protect the mills and farms and mines and not protect shipping and its kindred interests. Isn't it worth while to make an effort to keep these $200,000,000 per year at home for circulation among our own people?

ONCE more Greater New York is monopolizing a large section of the center of the political stage. The new reform campaign has excited interest from ocean to ocean. Mr. Croker has had sufficient fear for the opposition to leave his happy home in England and return to don his armor. It is understood that he has ordered an especially long lance for the encounter and that he will ride into the thick of the knights with great display. Whoever Tammany may designate as a sacrifice, the fact remains that Richard Croker is the logical candidate when the issues are analyzed.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S callers nowadays are from all parts of the country and they bring good wishes and promises of hearty support. The broadness of his policy so far as outlines has aroused general satisfaction. Mr. Roosevelt's excellent beginning has inspired confidence of conspicuous Republicans, and even those of opposing political faiths have not been backward in extending compliments.

"A Nation rebuilt" may almost be the description of what has been done under McKinley's administration.

THE REGISTRATION AMENDMENT.

The possibility of having a personal registration law in Pennsylvania has awakened a very general interest in the Registration Amendment that will come before the people at the November election. The Registration Amendment is one of two proposed amendments to the Constitution that was passed by the Legislature during the year's session. It was introduced first in the session of 1899 and re-introduced and passed finally this year. It goes now to the people for their judgment before it becomes effective.

The Registration Amendment is strongly support and urged by the Union Committee for the Promotion of Ballot Reform and the Merit System in Pennsylvania, at the behest of which it was presented in the legislature. The Union Committee was formed little more than a year ago to use its influence to have the Amendment passed and adopted. It represents the Municipal League of Philadelphia, The Pennsylvania Ballot Reform Association and the Civil Service Reform Association of Pennsylvania, all of which are interested in bringing about reform in the electoral system of the State. The enactment of adequate registration laws is regarded as the first step towards this end.

The fact that the Registration Amendment is without partisan bias is expected to have its effect in bringing to its support almost a united vote of the people, regardless of party. The Amendment in its present shape has no effect upon the existing laws. Its only purpose is to open the way for the enactment of such future laws, regulating the registration of voters, as the legislature may deem expedient and fit to pass. Such legislation would effect all parties equally and operate to the disadvantage of none.

A Prominent Republican, conspicuous in the councils of the party, in speaking of this very point says: "I can see no reason why the Registration Amendment should not pass. So far as I have knowledge it is unopposed by the Republican organization in the State, nor do I see any reason why it should meet with objection. In my opinion personal registration would be an advantage. While the proposed amendment does not give us personal registration it will prepare the way for such a law at any time in the future. The man who is not willing to take the trouble to register himself, should not have the privilege of voting."

Another prominent member of the Republican party who had much to do with the passage of the amendment by the legislature said: "I support the Registration Amendment and I propose to do so at the polls. There must be constant growth in government and we must ever rise to better forms of liberty. Without improvement in ballot methods the people will be handicapped in every proper public movement."

These utterances are typical of the opinions held by many of the prominent Republican and Democratic leaders throughout the State.

THE effort of the Democratic Constitutional Convention in Virginia to frame provisions for the disfranchisement of the colored voter is being carried to such an extreme that there is likely to be a revulsion of feeling calculated to defeat the object in view. Senator Daniel's proposal to make every voter qualify by either being able to read any section of the Constitution or give a lucid explanation of any section that shall be read to him, leaving the decision as to fitness to the registrar, is likely to disfranchise every voter in the State who is not a Democrat. The members of the Virginia convention may be surprised with the verdict at the ballot box this fall. Partisanship carried beyond certain limits disgusts even men who are strong party adherents and the impending political contest will afford an opportunity for the people to indirectly express themselves on the suffrage question which the Democrats are maltreating. It may cost the party several prominent candidates.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3, 1901.

Although the calm atmosphere of peace has long since settled over our country, the preparations for conflict continue in one form or another day by day. Only last week the greatest of America's fighting ships was launched at Bath, Me. This week there are to be at the Sandy Hook proving station a series of competitive tests of new field pieces for the army. A large number of formidable weapons and gun-carriages have been entered in the contest.

Probably the busiest man in America nowadays is Theodore Roosevelt. If they were forced to submit to the pressure which he is at present undergoing, the majority of the leading business men of the country would soon become distracted. Even J. Pierpont Morgan, with his multitudinous interests, would doubtless find himself seriously inconvenienced by the tasks that confront the new Chief Magistrate. Mr. Roosevelt is head over heels in work by nine o'clock in the morning, and, after a hurried disposition of mountains of correspondence, he is ready for the numerous heads of Government departments who seek to see him on various matters of importance. Between times, he is taking up the broken threads of foreign questions and domestic politics, severed by the sudden death of his predecessor. There are hundreds of bits of unfinished business, involving every part of the country, with which Mr. Roosevelt must familiarize himself before he can take intelligent action.

After he has received those who have matters of public business to present to his attention, he must play the host to scores of men of all sorts and conditions, but mainly men of political pursuits, who come to the White House these days on diverse missions. Some simply desire to shake his hand and wish him success in his new position of grave responsibility. Others seek to secure his approval of this plan or that measure which will come before Congress when it assembles. Many have axes to grind and offices to beg for themselves or others.

It is not until late in the afternoon that Mr. Roosevelt has bidden adieu to his last caller and finds a little time to either drive out with Mrs. Roosevelt or walk briskly through the parks or take his favorite mount and gallop into the environs of the Capital. Even after dinner, the President must give his attention to pressing matters that have accumulated during his brief respite from his desk and it is late at night oftentimes before he feels that he can leave the masses of documents and seek the rest that nature demands.

The odd little Grace Reformed Church has been brought into unexpected prominence by the fact that Theodore Roosevelt is of that denomination and has selected it as the President's place of worship in the Capital. Naturally, Grace Church has become a center of interest and is overtaxed every Sunday by its increased congregation. Visitors to Washington, and they come in droves, make it a point, as a rule, to try and see the Chief Magistrate at church before they leave the city. This is one of the reasons why the modest sanctuary is overcrowded nowadays. Mr. Roosevelt is generally accompanied to service by his daughter, Ethel, and his son, Kermit. He arrives just before the sermon, enters his pew unostentatiously and exhibits the deepest interest in the words of the pastor. He apparently takes no notice of the fact that even the aisles and the reserved space in the rear of the edifice are filled with curious Americans, or that some individuals on the outside avail themselves of points of vantage on the window sills. Mr. Roosevelt has a pew in the second row of the middle section and there is absolutely nothing to indicate that he is more than an ordinary communicant. At the close of the service, he walks quietly out with his children, and the congregation, as a mark of respect, remains standing while he makes his exit.

TIRED OR FEEBLE WOMEN

[Find Peruna to be an Unfailing and Prompt Remedy.]

Miss Mary Goerbing

Miss Mary Goerbing, of Medford, Wis., speaks in glowing praise of Peruna as a catarrhal tonic and nerve restorer. She says:

"I take great pleasure in acknowledging the curative powers of Peruna. As a nerve tonic, a gentle stimulator to a sluggish system, as an appetizer and restorer of lost strength and vitality of worn-out women, it is very superior.

"I find it is splendid as a preventative for catching cold, and whenever I feel used up I take a dose or two and it never fails to relieve me."

Tired Women.

Depression of the nervous system during the heat of summer months is a fertile source of blood impurities. That tired feeling, which is the natural result of the depressing effect of warm weather, quickly disappears when Peruna is taken.

Thousands are daily testifying to its priceless benefit. General lassitude, dull, heavy sensations, continued tired feelings, with irregular appetite and sometimes loss of sleep. Peruna meets every indication and proves itself to be perfectly adapted to all their varied peculiarities. Peruna invigorates the system, rejuvenates the feelings, restores the normal appetite and produces regular sleep.

Roxa Tyler, vice president of the Illinois Woman's Alliance, speaks in high praise of Peruna to restore tired nerves and weak body. In a letter written to Dr. Hartman, from 910 East Sixtieth street, Chicago, Ill., she says the following:

"During the past year I gradually lost flesh and strength until I was unable to perform my work properly. I tried different remedies, and finally Peruna was suggested to me. It gave me new life and strength. I cannot speak too highly of it."

Mrs. G. Briggs, Treasurer and Conductor William Down's Corps No. 43, Woman's Relief Corps, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman from 2419 Central avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"A few months ago my health seemed to break down all at once. I had worked hard, too hard, for nearly six weeks, and nature simply refused to sustain me any longer. I lost my appetite, my sleep was fitful and I found no relief from the prescriptions of my physician. Several of the members of our Order told me of the wonderful help they had received from Peruna and advised me to try it. I sent for it and within a week after starting to use it a marked change for the better was felt; before finishing the second bottle I was completely restored."

As a tonic and nerve invigorator it has no equal. It builds up the nerves and gives strength to the circulation. No feeble woman should be without Peruna.

"Health and Beauty," a book written especially for women by Dr. Hartman, contains much invaluable advice to ailing women, sent free by addressing The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

has declined to be victimized by the men who go into the far north to hunt for gold. An appeal was recently received from the district attorney at Nome, Alaska, asking that the Government send a vessel to bring back "indigent" miners from the Klondike region. The Department of Justice referred the matter to the War Department which returned an unfavorable answer.

A year ago a similar request was granted. An army transport was dispatched to carry the miners back to civilization. As a result of that experience the Department has decided that the "indigent" gold-seekers must provide their own transportation from Nome to the Pacific ports. When the alleged helpless miners last year arrived at Seattle they had plenty of money to spend for banquets and recreation, according to reliable advices received by the War Department, and their appeal for assistance was an imposition on a generous government. The Department, according to some of its leading officials, is of the opinion that the district attorney at Nome is anxious to rid the country of a large number of lawless characters and would welcome the appearance of a transport as a means to this end.

While it is believed that there are men who are stranded in the gold regions and who really deserve to be helped homeward, the Secretary of War does not feel justified in allowing himself to be again imposed upon by a horde of conscienceless people on the supposition that a few unfortunates may thereby be aided.

NOT THE ONLY ONE.

There are Hundreds of Bellefonte People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Bellefonte residents? After you have read the following quietly answer the question.

Mr. William Valence East Lamb street, Night watchman, says: "For 2 years or more off and on, I had trouble with my back and pains in the upper part of my spine accompanied by a disagreeable feeling in my head and acute lameness right over my kidneys. At first I thought it was my liver but later found it arose from the kidneys not acting properly. I read of the many cures that had been made in Bellefonte by Doan's Kidney Pills and I got them at F. Potts Green's drug store. They stopped the annoyance from the kidneys and removed the lameness and aching in my back. They did me any amount of good and I do not hesitate to recommend them."

Henry Watterson's Appetite.

Henry Watterson, the great Kentucky editor, is one of the largest eaters among the public men of the United States. His capacity in that respect seems unlimited. As a fair example of his capabilities two incidents will suffice.

On one occasion he attended the bi-monthly meeting of the Salmagundi club of Louisville, A banquet was one of the attractions of these meetings. Before, during and after the banquet there were discussions, but the banquet was the thing. On this night it was at the house of the editor of the republican paper of Louisville. The menu was one of fourteen courses, with the usual wines. One course was quail, and Mr. Watterson had two; another was venison, and again he was served twice. This happened in about half of the courses.

Before the end of the dinner all the other club members were but tasting what was put before them, but Mr. Watterson was eating all, and often calling for more. When the dinner was ended the rival editors went to their offices together. When they reached Newspaper Row Mr. Watterson said:

"Colonel, I am hungry, let's go over to Beymer's" (a cafe much affected by newspaper men) "and have something to eat."

"Great Scott, Watterson, I've filled all the space in my lockers. But I'll drop in and watch you eat."

The colonel claims that Mr. Watterson ate two pounds of cheese, half of an immense bologna sausage, a bowl of crackers and drank six bottles of beer, and Mr. Watterson never denied it. After this he went to the office of the Courier-Journal and wrote his celebrated "Star-eyed Goddess" editorial, that was copied and commented on all over the United States.

At another time he entered a cafe in the rear of a saloon of which he was a regular patron and called out to the proprietor:

"What have you to eat to-night; I'm hungry."

"Well, Massa Henry, I have some nice, fresh Ohio river jack salmon."

"How many have you?"

"Six"

"Well, bring me all six."

The Ohio river jack salmon weigh about two and a half pounds apiece. These six cleaned and cooked weighed fifteen pounds, the proprietor weighing them out of curiosity. Mr. Watterson finished the six, all but the bones, with a salad, some bread, and quite a little liquid on the side. This is one of his favorite fishes, and he has said that he has never been able to get enough.

Coles for October.

Coles, in "Storms and Signs" for October predicts as follows:

So many planets will be bunched together this month, and all except Earth and Neptune on the same side of the heaven and almost in the same sign, it will be hard to tell just what will happen to old mother earth, but we believe this strange meeting will cause the weather to play many tricks, and there will be some lively scenes in the financial, political and business world.

The danger from storm periods will be between the 2nd and 5th; 8th and 12th; 13th and 20th. As a Mercury period is central on the 22nd, many localities will be visited with sudden downpour of rain and great sleet storms from the 22nd to the 30th.

Dwellers along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts must watch out for hurricanes, tidal waves and cyclones this month. Would be well for navigators along the great lakes to also watch out for severe storms. Crimes, disasters, earthquakes and political trouble will run high.

This month Jupiter (our financial planet) will pass between Saturn and the sun. This unusual position of the planets will undoubtedly give us an opportunity to see some heavenly panoramic scenes.

The arrival of this cluster of sturdy, romping, fun-loving young Americans marked a new epoch in White House history. They first searched every nook and corner of the Mansion and even went so far as to invade the President's desk, when their father happened into the room and ordered them out doors. The children whereupon fled to the rear lawn of the White House, where forts of sand were built and a martial game known as "Sebastopol" was played.

THAT BOY O' ROGERS.

That boy o' Rogers, Lord spare me
From raisin' sech a brat as he!
Ef ever mischief was boiled down
Into a freckled, redhaired clown
And turned loose on two spindlin' shanks
T' bother mankind with his pranks,

Th' wa'n't no question that he'd be
Inside th' penitentiary
Afore he was a man full grown;
He could conspire more tricks alone
Than any boy I ever seed,
Th' biggest scamp, we all agreed,
Was that ar boy o' Rogers!

He turned up missin', went out west;
I 'low we thought it was th' best
Thing that had a-happened yit
When he made up his mind t' git;
For us he couldn't go too fur,
An' we all said, "Good riddance," sir,
T' that ar boy o' Rogers!

He left us twenty years ago;
I was out west a month or so

CURING THE BLUES.

Just Try Turning Up the Corners of Your Mouth.

A well known doctor of Minneapolis who has made a specialty of nervous diseases has found a new remedy for the "blues." As no drugs are administered, he has felt safe in experimenting with at least a half hundred melancholy patients and now declares himself thoroughly satisfied with the good results of his treatment. His prescription reads something like this: "If you keep the corners of your mouth turned up, you can't feel blue." The directions for taking are, "Smile, keep on smiling, don't stop smiling." It sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? Well, just try turning up the corners of your mouth, regardless of your mood, and see how it makes you feel. Then draw the corners of your mouth down and note the effect, and you will be willing to declare "there's something in it."

The doctor treats his nervous patients to medicine when necessary, but when the case is one of pure melancholy, without bodily ill, he simply recommends the smile cure. He has the patient remain in his office and smile. If it isn't the genuine article, it must at least be an upward curvature of the corners of the mouth, and the better feelings follow inevitably. The treatments are followed up regularly, and the patients all testify to their good effect. It takes considerable persuasion to induce some of them to apply the cure, and of course the greater number of patients are women, for when a man is blue he is bound to be blue in spite of everything, but a woman is more easily persuaded to try to find a cure.

The doctor declares that if persons will only draw down the corners of their mouths and use sufficient will power they can actually shed tears. On the other hand, if they will persistently keep the corners of the mouth turned up pleasant thoughts will chase away the gloomy forebodings. His discovery grew out of an experience in his own home. His wife was of a nervous and rather morbid temperament, and when in a despondent mood he would ask her to "smile a little" until the saying came to be a household joke. But it brought about good results, and then came the inspiration to try the same cure on others.

The doctor has not patented his remedy, and it is free to all who choose to take advantage of it.—Minneapolis Journal.

The Flight of the Stork.

The sork is a remarkably picturesque bird. Its snowy body contrasting with the bright red beak and legs and black quill feathers of the wings make it a striking object. The flight is magnificent, bolder and more buoyant than that of a heron. Like most large birds, its powers of flight show best when it is at a great height. When we were on the Bastei rock, in Saxon Switzerland, a pair passed overhead, flying southward. Though high above us, we could clearly see the black pinion feathers, and as we watched the powerful beat of the wide spreading wings we thought of the angels in Zechariah's vision who had "wings like the stork."—Chambers' Journal.

—When J. Pierpoint Morgan and his two dozen guest left the Grand Central station, New York, last Friday morning for their trip to San Francisco, they were on the finest train that ever traveled on an American railroad, and, therefore, in the world. There was a crowd to see them start. Mr. Morgan was full of boyish glee habitual to him when not absorbed in his business in Wall street. Without going into details it may be said that every luxury possible is on the train and that the clergyman and their wives, who made up the party with Mr. Morgan, will travel in such state as is possible only to royalty in Europe, and not often even to them.

What Somerset May Get.

A regular army post may be established at Somerset, Pa., on the site of the recent encampment of the National Guard of the State. It is reported that the state authorities have given up the idea of making it a permanent camping ground for the state troops and that the war department is considering the site as a favorable location for a regular army post. Congressman W. H. Graham and a number of others visited the site Monday. They will not admit that their inspection of the ground had anything to do with the plans of an army post site.

IT WILL BE BETTER.

Sunday North American Announces It Will Maintain High Standard of First Issue.

All records, both as to quality of matter and number of sales, were broken by the Sunday North American last Sunday, when its first issue was offered to the public. In each of scores of Pennsylvania towns several hundred more copies might have been sold if the supply had been equal to the demand. There was a great curiosity to see what the first number would be, and newsdealers everywhere report "clean sales."

Curiosity is quite as strong in regard to the next Sunday North American. The question is this—Will it maintain the pace and keep the high standard set in its first issue? The assurance is given out that next Sunday's paper will be even better than the initial number.

The sheet music supplement, which is printed on heavy paper and is in every way equal to the music purchased in stores, will be "Ida from Idaho," by John H. Flynn, the author of that great success, "Annie Moore." This new song is just as catchy as the one which the people of the United States are now singing and whistling.

In the Woman's Supplement, in beautiful colors, are illustrated pages of new fall jackets and some of the latest mourning costumes; the very latest silk waists, which will interest those who make their own clothes, Marion Harland has some good new cooking receipts, and discourses on household topics, including the care of children; Mrs. Henry Symes gives many more recipes for beauty, and tell how to acquire health by new breathing exercises; McDougall contributes wonderful stories for children, besides which there is a puzzle picture and some interesting illustrations.

In the comic supplement there is an excruciatingly funny series by Walt McDougall, called "How Bims Lost the Election." There are other comic sketches in colors to excite hilarity, and two pages of short humorous prose written by the men who made "Puck," "Life" and "Judge" famous.

The cover of the twelve-page magazine shows Pope Leo and his "Cabinet." It is a wonderful striking color page and will attract national attention. There are ten more pages of attraction illustrated and genuinely interesting news features.

THE LICK LENS.

Wonderful Effect Upon It of the Heat From a Man's Hand.

Some years ago the writer paid a visit to Alvan Clark at Cambridgeport to witness the testing of the huge lens for the famous Lick telescope. At the end of the long, dark room the largest flint glass then in the world was set up on edge. From a distance of about fifty feet a pencil of light was flashed into the heart of the disk and reflected back into the observer's eye. The slightest imperfections, if any, in the glass would then be revealed by the curves of light and the lines of polarization.

"Now," said Mr. Clark, "I will show you the wonderful sensitiveness of the lens to outside influences. Every human body gives out heat and when brought near to extremely sensitive substances affects them to a greater or less extent. Now watch."

He walked down to the lens and held his hand under it about two feet away. Instantaneously a marvelous spectacle burst into view. It seemed as if the great glass disk had become a living volcano, spurting forth jets of flame. The display was dazzling. Waving, leaping, dancing, the countless tongues of light gleamed and vibrated; then, fitfully, reluctantly, they died away, leaving the lens reflecting only a pure, untroubled light.

"What is it? How do you account for the wonder?" were the eager questions.

"It is only the radiation of heat alternately expanding and contracting the glass. If I had put my hand upon the lens itself, the phenomenon would have been even more violent."

To a person ignorant of lenses the almost supernatural sensitiveness of a mass of glass weighing several hundred pounds was astonishing, but to the scientist it is an everyday matter, for he has instruments that will register with unfailing nicety the approach of a person fifty or a hundred feet away.—Youth's Companion.

THE death penalty for murder has been restored in Colorado and Iowa In both these states the imprisonment for life experiment resulted, it is claimed, in a largely increased list of homicides. There are now only four States in which the death penalty is not inflicted, Wisconsin, Michigan, Maine and Rhode Island.

The Cup Races.

Much interest is manifested in the races for the America's cup, and a record of the contests for that trophy will be interesting.

1851—The cup was won by schooner America in a race against 13 British yachts around the Isle of Wight, and since that time has been kept in this country. Since that time ten attempts have been made to "lift" it without success, and now again comes a battle for supremacy.

Following is the record of trials up to date. The first named vessel in each race was the American and was the winner:

1870—Magic against Cambria.

1871—Columbia and Sappho against Livonia.

1876—Madeline against Countess of Dufferin.

1881—Mischief against Atalanta.

1885—Puritan against Genesta.

1886—Mayflower against Galatea.

1887—Volunteer against Thistle.

1893—Vigilant against Valkyrie.

1895—Defender against Valkyrie II.

1899—Columbia against Shamrock I.

Only once has a race of a series been won by the challenger. This was in the case of the Livonia, which took one race of the five sailed.

A PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

D. Eber Rothrock and Miss Cora E. Ott United in Holy Wedlock.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ott, of East High street, was the scene of a very pretty nuptial event Wednesday evening when their youngest daughter, Cora E., was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. D. Eber Rothrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Rothrock, of near Bellefonte.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the bridal couple entered the parlor to the music of Lohengrin's wedding march, as skillfully rendered by Mrs. Harry E. Jenkins, and taking their places beneath a beautiful floral wedding bell were pronounced man and wife according to the ritual of the Reformed church, by Rev. Thomas Levan Bickel, of Philadelphia.

Over fifty guests were in attendance and after the ceremony and congratulations were over all sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper which was highly enjoyed by all.

The bride was attired in a costume of pure white India linen and carried a bouquet of white flowers and presented a very charming appearance. The groom was attired as usual on such occasions and looked both manly and handsome. They were unattended by bridesmaids or best man.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents which testified to the high esteem in which she is held by a large circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Rothrock left this afternoon on the 1:05 train for their bridal tour which will be spent at the Pan-American Exposition, after which they will locate at DuBois, where the groom, who is an industrious and worthy young man, is employed in the shops of the B. R. & P. R. R.

The DAILY NEWS joins with the many friends in wishing them a happy and prosperous voyage on the sea of matrimony.

—Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was Thursday afternoon sentenced to be electrocuted during the week of October 28, the earliest date that could be fixed for the execution under the law. In a statement made before sentence was pronounced Czolgosz said that he had no accomplices, had not been paid to commit the crime and had not thought of shooting the President until two days before he committed the dastardly deed. If there was a plot or if any other person had a hand in the crime, which is not possible, the truth may come out before the assassin meets his doom in the electric chair.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease.

It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition.

It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs and disturbs the stomach.

It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

This great medicine has wrought the most wonderful cures of all diseases depending on scrofula or the scrofulous habit.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best cathartic.

"Such is Fame."

From the New York Times.

A man to fortune and to fame unknown seldom makes any claim that his physiognomy should be known in a public restaurant. When a man "in the public eye" whose likeness has been posted for several years in "three-sheet" style all over the country comes into a public place and is not known he is likely to say: "Such is fame."

An incident illustrating this occurred in a restaurant near Coney Island, much frequented by race track people and lovers of good dinners.

"No, sah, youse can't have this table, sah. This table is reserved for Mr. Sofa and a porty of eight."

The man addressed was Mr. Sousa, "the march king." He had come over from Manhattan Beach with his party.

"Why, I engaged this table," said Sousa, with a smile and a "don't-you-know me?" look. The waiter did not. Then the proprietor was called. He said that a Mr. Sofa had engaged the table and that Mr. Sofa was entitled to it and not Mr. Sousa.

"Of course, you can have the table," he finally said, "but if Mr Sofa comes with his party you will have to wait."

Sousa smiled and ushered his party into the dining room But how the telephone had happened to tangle Sousa's name into Sofa has not yet been explained.

Hughes—Peitsmeyer.

A pleasant home wedding occurred on Thursday 19th at the home of the bride, 712 East Long Street Columbus Ohio, when Miss Harriet Evangeline youngest daughter of the late Reverend Joseph, and Eliza Peitsmeyer was married to Mr. Edward Lawrence Hughes son of Rev. J. P. Hughes, Principal of the Bellefonte, Academy, Bellefonte, Pa.

Rev. J. C. Peitsmeyer brother of the bride officiating

On account of recent bereavement in the family, only immediate relatives were present.

The ceremony was performed at 9:30 a. m. and was followed by a wedding breakfast after which the bride and groom left for Buffalo and New York City, returning by the lakes.

After Sept. 30, they will be at home to their friends, at Dayton Ohio. All possible happiness for them in the future, is the wish of their many friends.

"The blood is the life." Science has never gone beyond that simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain in also clouded, the mind and judgment are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. No one can be well balanced in mind and body whose blood is impure. No one can have a wholesome and pure life unless the blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the blood is pure, body and brain are alike healthy and life becomes a daily happiness.

Death of Rev. Dr. Wm. A. Spencer.

Rev. Dr. William A. Spencer, who for the last sixteen years had been corresponding secretary of the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal church, died at his home in Philadelphia Wednesday evening from pneumonia, aged 61 years. Dr. Spencer was a veteran of the Civil war, he achieved distinction in evangelistic work and was one of the foremost members of the Methodist church. Dr. Spencer was one of the prominent participants in the services connected with the rededication of the Bellefonte Methodist church last April and while in Bellefonte was the guest of Hon. John G. Love.

IREM SHRINERS MEET.

Street Parade, Banquet and Initation of a Class of Forty-One.

The particular oasis of Irem Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in its pilgrimage toward the west, away from the sheltering shadows of its own pyramids, was found at Bellefonte Thursday night in ceremonial sessions extraordinary to gather in a few pilgrims who were too weary to wander to the oasis of Wilkesbarre in the desert of Pennsylvania.

The caravan was peopled by Sheiks and Beduoins of the vast expanse of the desert within the jurisdiction of Irem Temple, and with fevered brain and parched lips showing unmistakably their heretofore fruitless search for the oasis, like as those who have been buoyed up by the deceptive mirage, they were in pursuit of the spring which mirrored its placid waters in the sky. Weary of limb they intuitively wended their way to the sparkling, effervescent spring in the oasis of Bellefonte, and with salaams profuse and loud calls to Allah whom they praised, they cooled their fervid brows and laved their parched lips.

With a goat and a camel and a car load of paraphernalia they filled up the armory last night it being the evening of Jamaz ul Akhir VI Month XII Day Hegira 1319, whatever that means. In the afternoon 14 were taken in and in the evening 27 making a class of 41 all told.

Before the meeting in the evening a street parade through the principal avenues of the town was given. It started from the Bush House and was headed by the Coleville Silver Cornet band. The famous goat and the Arab patrol brought joy to the hearts of the natives and were a decided hit and the large number of Nobles in their full dress suits and handsome fez presented a brilliant appearance.

The night closed with an elaborate banquet in the Bush Arcade hall. The caterer was Charles G. Harrison of Bellefonte. Illustrious Potentate Frank Deitrick was chief gunner at the Oratorical target practice.

The Shriners were loud in their praise of the hospitality shown them by the people of Bellefonte.

The whole affair was under the charge of George T. Bush, himself a Shriner, and to whom the credit is due for getting the Shriners here.

A Chance For Life.

A CRY OF WARNING AND OF HOPE.

History repeats itself.

When the first dam burst or reservoir wall gave way and the man on horseback sped down the valley with the alarm, he was doing exactly what would be done under the same circumstances generation after generation. He was giving the people in the line of the flood a chance for life.

The man or woman who in some sudden peril has been plunged in the engulfing wave, or caught in an upper chamber of a burning house; these know how all of present and future can be gathered into that brief sentence, "A chance for life."

There is another class of people, those in danger from disease, who understand how much lies in those few words. There are men and women living to-day in healthy, active enjoyment of life who can look back to the time when they were weak and emaciated, coughing until the blood trickled over their lips, seeing no hope of escape from that dread disease consumption.

But a chance for life came to them and they took it.

"I feel very grateful for the home-treatment given me by the World's Dispensary Medical Association," writes Mr. T. J. F. Brown, of Sands, Watauga Co., N. C. "I had catarrh for several years, then took grip, also had hemorrhage from the lungs. I had the best medical attention, but only to bring partial relief. I got up for a few months, but had more hemorrhages. I took Dr. K——'s Discovery (twenty-five or thirty bottles), but in a few months I had more spells of bleeding. I wrote to Dr. Pierce and received directions what kind of medicine to use; I commenced taking his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I had only taken one bottle when I could see I was improving. I used five bottles of the 'Discovery' and three bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I have been able to do any kind of labor for more than twelve months. Well, I just simply owe my life to the World's Dispensary Medical Association."

A CHANCE FOR EVERY ONE.

Arguing from the cures effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there's a good chance of recovery for every one who suffers with weak lungs, obstinate cough, bronchitis and other forms of disease which if neglected or unskilfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption. What the chance of recovery is may be determined by the fact that of the thousands of persons who have used "Golden Medical Discovery" (and when necessary consulted Dr. Pierce by letter, free), ninety-eight per cent. have been perfectly and permanently cured. In severe cases of pulmonary disease "Golden Medical Discovery" has worked wonders. It has come to the sick man or woman as a last resort. The breath came in gasps; the cough was deep and distressing, there were hemorrhages, night-sweats, emaciation and great weakness. The doctor in many cases had gone his way saying "There's nothing more to be done." Then Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was used and the cure began. The cough disappeared. The hemorrhages ceased. Flesh was put on. And the once hopeless sufferer was at length restored to the activities of labor and the enjoyment of life. Thousands witness to these facts and these witnesses know whereof they speak because they are men and women who testify that they owe their lives to "Golden Medical Discovery," and Dr. Pierce.

"My husband had been coughing for years and people frankly told me that he would go into consumption," writes Mrs. John Shireman, of No. 265 25th Place, Chicago, Ills. "Had such terrible coughing spells, we not only grew much alarmed, but looked for the bursting of a blood-vessel or hemorrhage at almost any time. After three days' coughing he was too weak to cross the room. The doctor did him no good. I stated the case to a druggist, who handed me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My husband's recovery was remarkable. In three days after he began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery he was up and around and in two more days he went to work. Two bottles cured him."

WHAT WOULD IT COST

to consult the ordinary specialist in disease? More in most cases than the average person has to spend in fees. Yet persons suffering from chronic diseases are invited to consult an extraordinary Specialist by letter, free.

Dr. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., is an extraordinary specialist. He is extraordinary in an unbroken experience in the treatment and cure of disease which extends over thirty years. He is extraordinary in his success: 98 per cent. of those he has treated being absolutely and entirely cured. He is extraordinary in that he puts at the disposal of correspondents not only his own services but the services of his medical staff numbering nearly a score of qualified physicians. There is no other offer of free medical advice which has behind it so renowned an Institution as the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, or such a successful specialist as Dr. Pierce. Write in confidence to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Do not accept any substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." The medicine that dealers sometimes offer as "just as good" as Dr. Pierce's is not the medicine which has cured the thousands who testify that when all other medicines failed "Golden Medical Discovery" restored them to perfect and permanent health.

A BOILED DOWN BOOK.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser contains over a thousand large pages, and it has required this large number of leaves to contain even the "boiled down" medical wisdom of centuries. It is a medical library in itself. It treats of life in its many phases and of disease in its many forms, from the view point of common sense and in plain English. This book is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the volume bound in cloth, or only 21 stamps for book in paper-covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Landlord Loses $225.00.

S. B. Shaffer, proprietor of the Old Fort Hotel, is out of pocket $225, which he placed in the smokehouse for safe keeping. The Old Fort was doing a rushing business Thursday of last week and the proprietor made a chest in the smokehouse his place of deposit for cash. It was frequently necessary for Mr. Shaffer to change bills of ten and twenty dollar denominations, and if the money drawers of the hotel did not happen to have that amount of change the landlord went to his "vault" for the necessary. It is supposed that these maneuvres created suspicions that Mr. Shaffer had a pile of money somewhere about his premises and that the thief watched an opportune time and investigated to his own satisfaction.

The robbery proved an easy job. The smokehouse was broken into and the tool-chest sprung open and the money, consisting of notes, gold and silver, was hurriedly carried away. The robbery was committed, according to Mr. Shaffer's story, in broad daylight, between two and four o'clock in the afternoon. A detective was sent for but all that could be done was to look sorrowfully at the empty chest, and hope that the thief might be caught.

The affair created considerable excitement at the time and a variety of stories, conflicting in many ways, were circulated. Some are even so cruel as to say that the whole affair is a fake, but Mr. Shaffer declares the robbery to have taken place.—Centre Reporter.

Negro Fatally Stabbed.

William Denton, a negro, was fatally stabbed at Lewisburg Wednesday night by Edward Arnold; aged 24 years, during a fight over a pint of whiskey. The men were rrom Baltimore and came to that place with a vaudeville show to attend the county fair. The men bought the whiskeys which Arnold carried. The latter refused to give Denton a drink and a fight ensued, during which Arnold thrust a knife into the heart of his antagonist. Arnold made no attempt to get away. He claims self defense.

The man Denton was with the vaudeville show which exhibited at the Centre County Fair week before last.

Very Old Slang.

Many of the familiar phrases of the day have been in use since remote antiquity.

A learned German philologist has recently traced a number of these so-called slang phrases through half a dozen languages to their beginnings. Here is a partial list of them:—

"He's a brick!"—This phrase, meaning a good fellow, has been traced to a King of Sparta, four centuries B. C. A visitor to Lacedemonia, the Spartan capital, was surprised to find the city without walls, and he ask the king what he would do in case of an invasion. "Sparta has 50,000 soldiers," replied the king, "and each man is a brick!"

"To give the cold shoulder."—It was once the custom in France, when a guest had outstayed his welcome, to serve him with a cold shoulder of mutton instead of a hot roast, as a gentle hint for him to go.

"To kick the bucket."—This phrase dates back to the days of Queen Elizabeth. A shoemaker named Hawkins committed suicide by standing on a bucket placed on a table to raise himself to a convenient rafter. To kick the bucket was, of course his last act on earth.

"Catching a Tartar."—During the war between Russia and the Tartars a private soldier cried out: "Captain, I have caught a Tartar!" The officer ordered him to bring his prisoner forward. "He won't let me!" the soldier shouted back, and investigation showed that the Tartar was holding back his captor.

"Apple-pie order."—A certain Hepzibah Merton, in Puritan timee, was in the habit of baking two or three dozen apple pies every Saturday, which were to last her family through the week. She placed them in her pantry, labelling one or more for each day in the week. The pantry thus arranged was said to be in apple-pie order.

The Growth of a Little Patch.

Frank Smith, of Girard township, struggled along a few years ago to pay for 300 acres of obscure land which he had purchased from the Beausejgneur heirs for the sum of $750. Recently he went to test its value. It was assessed to him at $300. He first cut a little part of the timber on the tract, and this yielded him $1,000. Then the railroad company ran through it and paid Frank $960 for the privilege. Then they discovered some fine tie timber on it, and gave the owner a contract for making ties at 35 cents each, and up to September 1st he had realized $700 from ties and has twice this in sight before the timber is exhausted. Summing the matter up all in all it looks as though Smith would come out on his original purchase, having already refused $20 an acre for the coal under the whole of it. The W. B. V. R. R. has made a number of rich men along its line thus far.—Rafteman Journal.

VERY MUCH WANTED

The Last Few Years Has Shown a Remarkable Increase of Sleeplessness—How to Overcome It.

Sleeplessness is one of the most prolific sources producing weak, nervous and restless condition. There is no sense in using opiates, they only undermine the constitution. Nothing has ever been known to perfectly control this condition until the advent of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. Their action is so gentle and soothing, sweeet refreshing sleep follows, then nature has a chance to build up.

Mrs. S. H. Sankey, of No. 203 Oak St., Philipsburg, Pa., says: "I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. to anyone who from overwork, overstrain or excitement finds themselves in a run down, nervous, sleepless condition. The Nerve Pills were recommended to me and I got some. Their work was of a character that not only permits but makes it a pleasure for me to recommend them to others as a nerve tonic capable of giving strength, nerve steadiness and sleep.

By calling at Krumrine's drug store information can be obtained regarding this great success of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and how they were first introduced by proof of their merit.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

The W. C. T. U. Repudiates Mrs. Nation,

From Union Signal.

The press of last week reported Mrs. Carrie Nation as declaring that she hoped President McKinley would not recover, and many newspapers seized upon the opportunity for criticizing the W. C. T. U. in "harboring" such a member. If Mrs Nation voiced the sentiment attributed to her, she did not speak for any one but herself. White ribboners abhor anarchy and lawlessness, indignantly repudiate Mrs. Nation's alleged wish and unite with all true citizens of our Commonwealth in deploring the terrible tragedy. The National W. C. T. U. hastened to send the following telegrams:

MRS. WM. MCKINLEY:—

We pray that the President may be spared to you and to our country. You have our deep and affectionate sympathy. May you be divinely comforted and upborne.

LILLIAN M. N. STEVENS,
Pres. Nat'l W. C. T. U.

The general officers of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union send warmest sympathy to you in this hour of sorrow. We pray for the speedy recovery of the President.

L. M. N. STEVENS,
S. M. D. FRY,
HELEN M. BARKER.

THE STATE OF TRADE!

What Dun & Co. Say of the Financial Situation.

FORMAL CONDITIONS PREVAIL

The Business of the Country Continues to Flourish and the Prospect is Good.

FAILURES FOR THE WEEK 227

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade says this morning:

Normal conditions have been fully restored in the distribution of merchandise, the placing of delayed orders stimulating the few lines that appeared to halt. Resumption of work has progressed rapidly in the steel industry since the settlement of the labor controversy and there is little discord between employers and employes in other lines.

Steel production is now progressing at nearly the average rate. There are interruptions and delays through inability to secure special lines of material and higher prices are quoted for both steel and iron bars, steel billets and some other shapes. In pig iron there was the greatest activity since the strike began. Sales of 35,000 tons Bessemer at valley furnaces were reported, equal to $16 delivered at Pittsburg. Other large orders were under negotiation and producers look for a rising market. Higher prices for billets were partially nominal, owing to the impossibility of securing deliveries, but a free movement is anticipated shortly. A record-breaking output of steel rails is practically assured for 1901 and the new year will open with an unparalleled volume of business on the books. Plates and structural material are very strong.

The market for footwear is still on a strong basis. Textile lines were well engaged as a rule, much better news being received from cotton spinners at the north, and southern mills are busy. Wool is quiet but firm.

Steadiness in quotations of corn at the present high level is all that producers could desire. Making full allowance for the smaller yield and the decrease in exports, which has thus far been much greater proportionately, there does not appear to be satisfactory reason for the rise of 15 cents over last year's figures and 25 cents over the price at this date in 1899. Shipments from the Atlantic coast for the week were 728,020 bushels, against 1,560,018 last year and 2,954,477 two years ago. A heavier movement is expected, owing to larger buying for foreign account, secured through low rates for transportation. Wheat is well sustained and still better prices are promised by the heavy export movement, which from all United States ports for the week reach 5,268,413 bushels, flour included, against 3,557,482 last year. Western receipts of 8,292,456 bushels exceed even the liberal shipments in 1900 of 6,954,777 bushels.

Failures for the week numbered 227 in the United States against 204 last year, and 31 in Canada against 18 last year.

STATE—27, W. U. P.—0.

The Visitors From the Western Part of the State Were Easy Marks.

In a rather one-sided contest Saturday, State College defeated the Western University of Pennsylvania by 27 to 0. At no stage of the game was W. U. P.'s playing equal to that of her opponents.

State's interference and team work, together with excellent physical condition, outclassed the opposition at every point. The work of Scholl, Bennett, Sweet, Hewitt and Whitworth in making repeated and substantial gains through the tackles and around the ends was a brilliant feature of the game. Attendance 600.

Manager Zern, of States Team, feels very happy over Saturday's game, with W. U. P. and feels very confident that his men will roll up a score if not win the game from U. of P. on next Saturday. Cummings has promised to go on the field this week to practice, and will play Saturday. With the team Zern has back of him, and Cummings, whom everybody in Bellefonte knows, they surely will do some excellent work.

Trolley Line for Millheim.

A Millheim correspondent who is enthused over the prospects of a trolley line being constructed to connect Coburn, Millheim, Aaronsburg, Rebersburg, Madisonburg and Penns Cave writes that negotiations are being made to secure the necessary timber, such as poles and ties, and that construction on the line will begin in less than a month.

The power house is to be built as soon as the necessary timber and other material can be secured. The location for the power house is along Elk creek, which is to be dammed and harnessed to furnish the power necessary to run the dynamos which in turn will furnish the power to chase the trolley cars and to light adjoining towns. It is the purpose of the company, of which J. W. Musser is the moving local spirit, to combine passenger and freight traffic.

The correspondent further adds that Penns Cave is to pass into other hands, and that the surrounding acres will be converted into a most beautiful park, and that a new hotel will be erected, the cost of which improvements will only be a secondary matter.—Centre Reporter.

Festival.

On Friday evening, October 11th, the Bellefonte Academy students will hold a cake and ice cream festival in the Y. M. C. A. rooms from seven to eleven. Chocolate and coffee will also be served. The object of the festival is to provide an emergency fund for the Academy Athletic association. Heavy guarantees are always necessary to secure first-class foot ball teams from a distance and almost invariably the management is forced to borrow money from individuals to make up the deficit resulting from the poor patronage of the people.

The Academy for years has furnished nearly all the foot ball sport which our people have enjoyed and their efforts at this time to provide against deficits should be heartily encouraged by everybody. Remember, a plate of cream and a large slice of cake on Friday, October 11, for 15 cents.

A Remarkable Pumpkin.

The large pumpkin on exhibition in front of Harpers' grocery, weight 43 pounds, girth 47 inches, was given to Mr. Crittenden by the same family that provided the lunch he had in his grip and that saved his life when lost last summer in the forests of Elk county. Rarely, if ever, has a better opportunity been given to the lovers of pumpkin pie in Bellefonte to buy a pumpkin that will make—well, the ladies or cooks in town and any housekeeper in the county are invited to take a good look and estimate the number of pies that pumpkin will make and report to us. The name of the one guessing the closest will be placed on the Roll of Honor for good house-keeping. Pumpkin pies are now in order. R. C.

An Aged Lady's Death.

Miss Nancy Oliver died Wednesday at 1:10 o'clock p. m. at the home of her niece, Mrs. T. C. VanTries, on North Spring street. Death was due to pneumonia.

She was born in Derrydeg, Lilavady, Ireland, 88 years ago and was the daughter of John Oliver, a prominent citizen of that place.

In 1847 she came this country and of late years has made her home with Mrs. VanTries. She was a sincere Christian lady and a member of the Presbyterian church since she was 17 years of age.

Funeral services will be held this evening at 7:30 at the residence of Dr. VanTries and on Friday morning the remains will be taken to Graysville where the interment will take place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

JOHN UZZLE'S DEER PARK.

It is a Delightful Spot on Top of the Famous Allegheny Mountains.

Talk about the sights a genuine lover of wild game delights to behold, there are very few of them equal to the seventy-acre park at Snow Shoe, Pa. This is on top of the famous Allegheny mountains, and the park in question is owned by that celebrated outspoken, honest and always magnanimous John G. Uzzle, than whom no man is better known throughout all Central Pennsylvania. In this natural park he has now forty-three deer, among which number are about a dozen fawns, also a large fish pond, supplied with the purest of pure mountain water directly from springs located on the premises. A high fence encloses the park, and the utmost cleanliness prevails everywhere. In the fish pond can be seen various kinds and sizes of the finny tribe incident to fresh water, such as the beautiful brook trout, carp and other species. Every morning Mr. Uzzle visits his park, and it is a genuine delight to see him carry a bushel or more of shelled corn in a sack or bag and scatter it among his nearly half hundred of the finest looking and best fed deer to be found on this hemisphere The deer congregate around and about him same as does a flock of sheep about a farmer at feeding time. And when he visits the lake or fish pond and casts his bread upon the waters, watch the trout and other fish strive for the first and largest portion.

This is one side of the story. The other is that when Mr. Uzzle and his family, or and particular friends visiting at the time, desire a delightful venison steak in season, all that is needed is to go to the park, bag a buck or doe, have it properly prepared and then you have it on the table with all its deliciousness, or, if it is desirable to have a mess of brook trout in season all that is necessary is for Mr. Uzzle, or any one he may send, to visit his own park lake, attach a morsel of bread to a fishhook, throw it on the water, up comes the trout, and the next instant it lands on the banks.

These are among the pleasures of being situated like Mr. Uzzle and his highly intelligent family is, in so salubrious a climate and surrounded by all that nature and affluence can bring about. Mr. Uzzle located at Snow Shoe many years ago, and by hard work and economy has accumulated quite a goodly share, a portion of which is invested in farms, timber and coal lands besides an elegant hotel which he and his family personally conduct, and no better or more homelike hostelry can be found in a dozen states.—Gazette and Bulletin.

Wedding at Pleasant Gap.

One of the most brilliant events in the history of Pleasant Gap, Centre county, occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Brooks, on Thursday, September 26. It was the event of the marriage of their excellent daughter, Annie, to Harry S Gentzel, elder son of Harry P. Gentzel, one of Spring township's best farmers and most prominent citizens. The day was and auspicious one and the happy couple started on their voyage of wedded life with encouraging prospects, At 4:30 o'clock the neighbors and friends had all assembled, when Miss Alexander, of Huntingdon, took her place at the piano at 5 p. m. and rendered a beautiful wedding march. Then appeared the groom, accompanied by F. Woods Bathgate as best man, followed by Miss Mary Twitmire, of Pleasant Gap and Mr. Cloyd Brooks, of the same place as bridesmaid and groomsman just preceding the bride, who was accompanied by Miss Clara Gentzel as maid of honor, the 8 year-old sister of the bride, who carried a basket of beautiful white and pink carnations, which corresponded with the endless variety of earth's blooming flowers which adorned the parlor. They were met at the altar by the Rev. George W. Lesher, of Boalsburg, who drew the matrimonial knot and pronounced them husband and wife in the presence of over 100 witnesses.

The marriage vow was sealed by the groom placing on the finger of the bride a handsome ring. After congratulations and best wishes had been extended all were escorted to the dining room where an extensive table fairly groaned under its burden of good things, which displayed a degree of culinary ability and hospitality, corresponding to the deserving reputation of Mrs. Brooks as an expert in the culinary department. Mrs. Gentzel is one of Pleasant Gap's young ladies, who has many friends. The groom is an excellent young man. The presents received by the bride were numerous, elegant and useful. After an extended wedding tour to Baltimore, Richmond and Washington, D. C., they will locate in Altoona, where Mr. Gentzel is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

The Crowded Professions.

Philadelphia Times.

The various law and medical schools in Philadelphia are making a larger enrollment this fall than ever before. All that is said and written about overcrowded professions seems to have no deterrent effect on ambitious young aspirants. A large number of the students have saved enough money by working during the summer to pay for their tuition and living expenses for the winter. Many earn money constantly by soliciting for various forms of insurance—life, fire, plate glass, accident and industrial. Acquaintances made in this way are invaluable to a young lawyer, even after he has been admitted to the bar. It takes a long time to build up a practice either in the law or the medical profession.
